Parliament work stalled by protests

Budget session began tensely as Oppn sloganeered, prompting Speaker to suspend proceedings

NEW DELHI

The Budget Session of Parliament faced major disruptions on Friday, forcing both the Lok Sabha and Rajya Sabha to adjourn until Monday. The Lok Sabha proceedings were halted within minutes after Opposition members began loud protests and sloganeering against the government. Speaker Om Birla expressed frustration, noting that 19 hours of House time have already been wasted during the session.

Opposition MPs, including Congress leaders Rahul Gandhi and Priyanka Gandhi Vadra, staged protests at the Makar Dwar, calling the India-US trade agreement a "trap deal." Rahul Gandhi criticized Prime Minister Narendra Modi, saying, "Do whatever you think is right," while other members raised placards highlighting their concerns over trade policies.

Union Ministers, including Shantanu Thakur, Ashwini Vaishnaw, and Shivraj Singh Chouhan, urged Opposition MPs to let the House function smoothly. BJP MPs Jagadish Shettar and Ravneet Singh Bittu accused Opposition members of undermining parliamentary procedures and called for uninterrupted discussions.

> Parliament's Budget Session was disrupted Friday as protests over the India-US trade agreement forced repeated adjournments of both Houses till Monday. Opposition sloganeering stalled debates on the Union Budget and welfare Bills, while ministers urged order, warning that valuable House time continues to be lost amid mounting political tensions nationwide.

In the Rajya Sabha, ministers responded to questions on issues such as train stoppages at Tirur and digital agriculture projects, but the Upper House also adjourned and is set to resume on Monday.

The day's agenda included the Union Budget discussion for 2026–27, several welfare Bills for farmers, students, and workers, and legislation on education, healthcare, and social security. Despite planned debates, the session was overshadowed by political friction.

Observers noted the tense atmosphere in Parliament, with repeated interruptions affecting the smooth conduct of business. Both Houses are expected to resume critical discussions next week, with officials emphasizing the importance of maintaining decorum.

CM urges farmers embrace post-harvest entrepreneurship

BENGALURU

Chief Minister Siddaramaiah called upon farmers across Karnataka to unite and strongly oppose what he termed the Central Government's conspiracy to abolish the Mahatma Gandhi National Rural Employment Guarantee Act (MGNREGA) and implement the VB-G RAM GAct.

Addressing the International Trade Fair–2026, themed Post-Harvest Agriculture – Farmer Empowerment, and the State-Level Agricultural Scholars Award ceremony, the Chief Minister said agriculture can become profitable only if farmers move beyond cultivation and actively engage in post-harvest activities.

POST-HARVEST FOCUS

"Farmers must become entrepreneurs. Along with crop cultivation, they should take part in storage, processing, packaging, marketing and by-product development," Siddaramaiah said, adding that greater participation of women in agriculture was essential. He described the achievements of women farmers honoured at the event as inspiring examples of how agriculture could be transformed into a viable livelihood.

SUPPORT MEASURES HIGHLIGHTED

The Chief Minister listed several initiatives undertaken by the State government to support farmers, including the supply of quality seeds, fertilisers and pesticides, and a subsidy of ₹1,500 crore for the purchase of agricultural machinery. He said Karnataka ranked first in the country in implementing the crop insurance scheme, with ₹6,000 crore already disbursed as compensation to farmers.

PROCUREMENT AND DIVERSIFICATION

Siddaramaiah urged farmers to diversify beyond sugarcane and ragi. He said sugarcane prices were fixed after discussions with farmers, while tur dal procurement centres were opened a month early. With maize production expected to reach 54 lakh metric tonnes, he said arrangements were made to procure 40 lakh metric tonnes at ₹2,400 per quintal after consultations with ethanol manufacturers and industries.

MGNREGA VS VB-G RAM G ACT

Criticising the Centre, the Chief Minister said MGNREGA, introduced under former Prime Minister Manmohan Singh, provided employment to women, Adivasis and labourers through Gram Sabha-led projects. "Without the consent of State governments, MGNREGA has been scrapped and replaced by the VB-G RAM G scheme, even removing Mahatma Gandhi's name," he said, urging farmers to demand the restoration of MGNREGA.

YOUTH AND AGRICULTURE

Calling for greater youth participation, the Chief Minister noted that dependence on agriculture had fallen from about 80% before Independence to 62% today. "Agriculture becomes profitable only when post-harvest activities are adopted," he said.

KRUSHI BHAGYA RESTORED

CM said the Krushi Bhagya scheme, suspended during the previous BJP government, had been restored with an allocation of nearly ₹200 crore. He also highlighted welfare schemes such as Shakti, Gruha Jyothi, Gruha Lakshmi and Anna Bhagya.

ICC Under-19 World Cup: Sooryavanshi's Masterclass Guides India to Sixth Title

HARARE

Vaibhav Sooryavanshi's breathtaking 80-ball 175 powered India to a record sixth ICC Under-19 World Cup title, as the colts thrashed England by 100 runs in the final at Harare on Friday. Electing to bat first, India posted a mammoth 411 for nine, with Sooryavanshi smashing 15 sixes, reaching his century in just 55 balls—the second fastest in U-19 World Cup history. His innings set multiple records: the highest individual score in a U-19 final, the tournament's highest team total in a summit clash, and the most sixes in a Youth ODI innings, surpassing his own previous mark. England's reply faltered from the start, and they were bowled out for 311, never seriously challenging India's dominance. Sooryavanshi, only 14, also became the youngest centurion in U-19 World Cup history, while accumulating 22 sixes in this edition alone, surpassing South Africa's Dewald Brevis record of 18 sixes set in 2022. India's victory underscores the depth of talent in their youth system, with Sooryavanshi's aggressive, record-breaking innings now celebrated as one of the most memorable knocks in the history of U-19 cricket.

Deputy Chief Minister plays down leadership speculation, defers all decisions to Congress high command

'He is our high command': D K Shivakumar reacts to Yathindra's CM remark

MANGALURU/MYSURU

Deputy Chief Minister D K Shivakumar on Friday brushed aside speculation over Karnataka's leadership after MLC Yathindra said the Congress high command had given the green signal for his father Siddaramaiah to continue as Chief Minister for five years.

Reacting to the remark, Shivakumar said with a touch of sarcasm, "He (Yathindra) is our high command. Whatever he says, I accept it with respect. Let us accept him as high command when he issues statements like a high command." He, however, made it clear that any decision on leadership would rest solely with the Congress high command in Delhi.

When asked about MLA Basavaraju's demand for clarity on the alleged power-sharing arrangement, Shivakumar declined to comment. "I will not respond to statements made by Basavaraju or Yathindra. If any response is to be given, it should come from the high command," he said.

Speaking to reporters at Mangaluru International Airport, Shivakumar said preparations were underway to strengthen the party organisation across the state. "I have directed that foundation stones be laid for 100 Congress offices in March. Whether or not the AICC gives dates, we will make all arrangements and begin the work," he said.

He added that he was in Puttur to attend the foundation stone laying ceremony of the Congress Bhavana and noted that March 10 would mark six years since he took charge as KPCC president.

Responding to allegations that Muslims were not invited to the Puttur event, Shivakumar rejected the charge, saying the Congress does not practise caste- or religion-based politics. "Our party believes in ideology, not divisions. Dharma should be in politics, but politics should not be in dharma," he said, dismissing the allegations as politically motivated.

AAP LEADER LUCKY OBEROI SHOT DEAD IN BROAD DAYLIGHT

JALANDHAR

In a shocking act of violence, Aam Aadmi Party leader Lucky Oberoi was shot dead in broad daylight outside a gurdwara in Model Town, Jalandhar, on Friday morning. Oberoi, 38, was about to leave the gurdwara in his Mahindra Thar Roxx after offering prayers when unidentified assailants on a two-wheeler opened fire, hitting him with 8-10 bullets. He was immediately rushed to a local hospital but succumbed to his injuries, confirmed ACP Parminder Singh. The police have launched a detailed investigation into the incident. Oberoi, a prominent Jalandhar-based AAP leader, was well-known in the city's political circles.

The killing sparked outrage among political leaders. Leader of Opposition Partap Singh Bajwa condemned the act, saying the murder exposes Punjab's rising gang violence and administrative failure. "If even ruling party leaders aren't safe, what hope remains for ordinary citizens?" he tweeted.

BJP national general secretary Tarun Chugh called the incident a grim reminder of Punjab's slipping law and order. He criticized the AAP government for failing to protect lives, warning that rising gangster activities and administrative paralysis are threatening public safety. Political leaders and citizens have demanded swift action against the perpetrators. The incident has raised serious questions over the state government's ability to maintain law and order in Punjab, once known for its courage and safety.

DEADLY FRIDAY ATTACK

Mosque bombing kills dozens in Pakistan capital

ISLAMABAD

A powerful bomb exploded inside a Shia mosque on the outskirts of Islamabad during Friday prayers, killing at least 31 people and injuring more than 160 others, according to police. Many of the injured were reported to be in critical condition and were rushed to nearby hospitals by rescue workers, police teams, and local residents. Authorities said the blast was a deliberate attack and confirmed that an investigation has begun to identify those responsible.

No group has claimed responsibility so far. In the past, militant groups such as the Pakistani Taliban, Baloch separatist outfits, and the Islamic State affiliate have carried out similar attacks in different parts of Pakistan. Although Islamabad usually remains safer than other cities, the country has seen a sharp rise in militant violence in recent months.

President Asif Ali Zardari strongly condemned the bombing, calling it a crime against humanity. He expressed deep sorrow over the loss of innocent lives and said the nation stands with the affected families. Prime Minister Shehbaz Sharif also denounced the attack and ordered a full investigation. He directed authorities to provide the best possible medical care to all injured victims.

Interior Minister Mohsin Naqvi asked officials to ensure security and support emergency services. The attack took place while Uzbekistan President Shavkat Mirziyoyev was visiting Islamabad, though his official event was held far from the blast site.

Security around the capital has been tightened following the incident. The bombing comes days after deadly attacks in Balochistan province and highlights continuing security challenges faced by Pakistan. Officials urged citizens to remain calm, cooperate with police, and report any suspicious activity immediately nationwide.

Bowring Institute secretary files complaint over threats

Bengaluru

The Bowring Institute management has lodged a complaint with the cyber police alleging that unknown persons have been sending abusive and threatening messages using Virtual Private Networks (VPNs) and making calls from abroad. Institute Secretary H.S. Srikanth, who also approached Police Commissioner Seemanth Kumar Singh, said the callers were concealing their identities by using international SIM cards. A preliminary probe revealed that the calls were allegedly made at the behest of a few former club members who were disqualified earlier. Their petitions challenging the disqualification were dismissed by a court in April last year. Since then, random threatening calls have reportedly been made to members, including women. An FIR has been registered.

First phase of Business Corridor to be completed in 18 months: DCM DK Shivakumar

Deputy Chief Minister says compensation, TDR clarity and faster e-khata approvals will ease land issues

BENGALURU

Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar said the first phase of the ambitious Bangalore Business Corridor project would be completed within the next one and a half years. He also clarified that while a committee involving a Central government secretary and the BMRCL chief had discussed a metro fare hike, no official communication had been received by him so far.

Addressing the media at Vidhana Soudha, Shivakumar said he recently held a review meeting with officials of the Bangalore Development Authority (BDA) on the progress of the Bangalore Business Corridor, covering both the northern and southern stretches. During the meeting, compensation cheques, certificates and Transferable Development Rights (TDRs) were distributed to landowners who had given up land for the project.

He said compensation was being provided generously to ensure smooth execution. "In some cases, landowners have received 35% of the developed commercial land as compensation, while others have been paid through cheques and TDRs. We have given three times the market value for revenue land and twice the market value for land within BBMP limits," he said. More than 650 landowners have consented to part with their land, and compensation has already been distributed to around 400 of them.

Addressing confusion over TDR issuance, the DCM said BDA would issue TDRs for land under its jurisdiction, while the Greater Bengaluru Authority (GBA) would do so for land under its limits. He directed officials to issue TDRs within 10 days, assuring that they would be valued at double the market rate.

On e-khata delays, Shivakumar said a meeting was held with the Urban Development Department secretary and e-khata officials. Applications must be decided within two days, and a 100-member review team has been formed to resolve issues. "A system is in place to issue 60% of e-khatas within 24 hours. Of 9.34 lakh applications, 9.31 lakh have already been disposed of," he said.

He added that around 7,000 applications seeking conversion from B-khata to A-khata were pending due to mapping issues. Officials have now been instructed to conduct onsite surveys and approve conversions within 15 days, he said.

B'luru to get dedicated electric vehicle city, 80 acres identified near city

BENGALURU

Consultation with EV majors, IT-BT officials charts roadmap for integrated ecosystem

Karnataka is moving a step closer to establishing a dedicated electric vehicle (EV) city, with nearly 80 acres of land identified for developing a comprehensive EV ecosystem aimed at strengthening the State's leadership in clean mobility. The proposed facility will bring testing, validation, research and development, and certification under one roof, enabling faster and more efficient EV manufacturing.

According to officials, land parcels within a 100-km radius of Bengaluru are being explored, with Tumakuru, Ramanagara and Chikkaballapur emerging as key contenders. Given the space constraints within the city, peripheral locations are seen as ideal for accommodating large testing tracks, laboratories, charging infrastructure and allied facilities required for EV development.

The project gained momentum following a consultation meeting that brought together major EV industry players and officials from the IT-BT Department. The deliberations focused on shaping the structure of the EV city and identifying industry requirements to build a robust, future-ready ecosystem. An industry consortium is expected to submit detailed recommendations on developing facilities that support the entire EV lifecycle—from design and prototyping to testing, certification and pre-market validation.

Officials said the EV city is being designed to cater to companies of all sizes. Startups will benefit from access to basic infrastructure and shared facilities, mid-sized firms will receive research and testing support, while large manufacturers will gain from advanced R&D and validation capabilities. This inclusive approach is intended to ensure that the ecosystem supports innovation at every stage of EV development.

The proposed campus will feature dedicated testing tracks, state-of-the-art laboratories, charging infrastructure, certification centres and R&D hubs in a single, integrated location. Such a plug-and-play environment is expected to significantly reduce time-to-market by allowing manufacturers to move seamlessly from concept to certified vehicle.

Once operational, the EV city is expected to redefine how electric vehicles are developed and tested in India. By combining policy support with world-class infrastructure, Karnataka aims to accelerate the adoption of clean mobility while creating jobs and boosting industrial growth.

With the largest concentration of EV startups in the country, Karnataka already plays a leading role in electric mobility innovation. The proposed EV city is expected to further cement Bengaluru's reputation as India's electric vehicle capital and attract global investors and technology partners.

By enabling local testing and validation, the EV city will help manufacturers cut logistics costs and reduce dependence on facilities outside the State. Faster certification and validation processes will allow quicker market entry, helping Karnataka-based EV companies remain competitive in India's rapidly evolving electric mobility landscape.

CID cyber officers' operation: 13 arrested for aiding mule bank accounts

BENGALURU

The Cyber Crime Division of the Criminal Investigation Department (CID) has intensified its crackdown on mule bank accounts, arresting 13 persons for allegedly facilitating cyber frauds by providing bank account details to cybercrime syndicates. The arrests followed a statewide operation launched against individuals who procure or misuse bank accounts of unsuspecting citizens in exchange for money.

According to officials, the CID has registered 14 cases across various district CEN police stations as part of the drive. Cybercriminals increasingly rely on mule accounts to route and launder funds siphoned from the public, making detection and recovery difficult. In response, cyber police have launched a focused campaign to identify and dismantle such networks.

Preliminary investigations indicate that Karnataka has nearly 42,000 suspected mule accounts. As an initial step, senior officers directed personnel at 29 CEN police stations, including those in Bengaluru, to collect address and identity details linked to 158 mule accounts by Friday evening. Based on these inputs, teams identified and questioned account holders across districts such as Bengaluru, Chitradurga, Gadag, Koppal and Dharwad.

Officials said that in the first phase, 158 suspected mule account holders were served notices and asked to furnish details regarding account operations and transactions. The arrests made on Thursday are part of this phase, and further action is expected as scrutiny widens.

Cybercrime officials cautioned that fraudsters often obtain bank details either without the account holder's knowledge or by luring them with promises of easy money. Funds generated from online scams are routed through these accounts, leaving genuine account holders unaware until a complaint is registered and the transaction trail leads investigators to them.

Several cases involving losses running into crores of rupees have been reported in the State due to the misuse of mule accounts. The CID warned that strict legal action will be taken against intermediaries and facilitators who knowingly or unknowingly allow their accounts to be used for cyber fraud. The department has urged the public to remain vigilant and avoid sharing banking details or accepting money for allowing account use.

Eshwarappa's son moves HC seeking Shivamogga civic polls; notice to govt

BENGALURU

Former Minister K.S. Eshwarappa's son and former Holalkere Zilla Panchayat member K.E. Kantesh has approached the Karnataka High Court seeking directions to the State government and the State Election Commission (SEC) to immediately conduct elections to the Shivamogga Municipal Corporation, whose term expired over two-and-a-half years ago.

A Division Bench comprising Chief Justice Vibhu Bakhru and Justice C.M. Poonacha, while hearing a public interest litigation filed by Kantesh, issued notice to the State government.

The SEC has also issued notice to the Shivamogga Municipal Corporation Commissioner, directing him to file objections to the petition. The matter has been adjourned to April 21.

In his petition, Kantesh pointed out that elections to the Shivamogga Municipal Corporation were held on August 31, 2018, and the five-year term of the elected body ended on August 30, 2023. An Administrator was appointed on November 27, 2023, and the civic body has since been under administrative control for nearly two-and-a-half years.

The petitioner contended that as per law, elections to urban local bodies must be conducted within six months of the expiry of their term. However, no elections have been held for more than three years, with no valid justification offered by the authorities. He alleged that the absence of an elected council has resulted in stagnation of administration and developmental works in the city.

Kantesh further submitted that prolonged delay in holding elections is detrimental to democratic governance and infringes upon the constitutional rights of citizens. The petition claimed that failure to conduct elections encourages corruption, undermines accountability and violates the spirit of the 73rd and 74th Constitutional Amendments, which mandate decentralisation of power to local bodies.

Seeking urgent relief, the petitioner urged the court to direct the authorities to issue an election notification within 15 days and ensure the restoration of elected local self-government in Shivamogga.

Private bus from Bengaluru to Kalaburagi catches fire, 40 passengers escape

BENGALURU

A private bus travelling from Bengaluru to Kalaburagi caught fire and was completely gutted after crashing into an electric pole on the Tumakuru–Bengaluru National Highway 48 in the early hours of Friday. The incident occurred around 2.40 am near Hanumanthapura Gate in Nelamangala taluk.

The bus, operated by Sanjana Travels, reportedly lost control while moving slowly through a stretch where road construction work was in progress. Police said the driver first hit a road divider and then rammed into an electric pole, following which the vehicle caught fire within moments. A short circuit is suspected to have triggered the blaze.

There were around 40 passengers on board at the time. The driver, who noticed the fire immediately, acted swiftly and ensured all passengers were evacuated from the bus. No injuries were reported. Fire brigade personnel rushed to the spot and brought the flames under control. However, the bus was reduced to ashes due to the intensity of the fire. Luggage stored in the baggage compartment was also destroyed. Nelamangala traffic police visited the scene and are investigating the incident.

UPGRADED TECHNOLOGY IMPLEMENTATION

Cabinet clears AI-powered software to curb fake news, hate speech

BENGALURU

The State Cabinet has decided to implement a state-of-the-art Artificial Intelligence (AI)-powered "Social Media Analytics Solution" to curb the growing spread of fake news, hate speech, misinformation and malicious campaigns across digital platforms. The decision was taken at a Cabinet meeting chaired by Chief Minister Siddaramaiah, with in-principle administrative approval granted for the project at an estimated cost of ₹67.26 crore.

Addressing a press conference after the meeting, Parliamentary Affairs Minister H.K. Patil said the rapid pace of information technology development had rendered traditional monitoring mechanisms inadequate. "Misinformation spreads at great speed and scale. AI technology will help the government take swift and effective action to prevent fake news and hate speech," he said.

The Minister clarified that while social media platforms will be monitored, the digital platforms of mainstream media organisations will remain outside the purview of the system. However, fake media organisations and malicious digital entities will be covered. He emphasised that the software would function without human intervention and that there would be no direct government interference, as the system is fully AI-driven.

The proposed AI system will analyse vast volumes of digital content across social media websites and messaging platforms to instantly identify and flag harmful narratives and activities. These include the spread of fake news, hate speech, misinformation, online abuse, extremist recruitment and even crimes such as child trafficking. Officials said the aim is to detect and counter digital threats in real time, something that conventional methods struggle to achieve due to the sheer volume and complexity of online data.

Each district will be provided with dedicated user licences, and trained personnel will be deployed to operate the system effectively. The software will integrate advanced Open-Source Intelligence (OSINT) and AI technologies, enabling deep data collection, enrichment and real-time analysis. A central Command and Control Centre will function as the coordination hub, facilitating decision-making, inter-district coordination and reporting.

By generating actionable intelligence, district-level mapping and ready-to-use analytical reports, the system is expected to serve as an early warning mechanism for administrators. Officials said it would strengthen governance, enhance security, build public trust and support data-driven decision-making across the State, while addressing the challenges posed by the evolving digital information landscape.

Karnataka Information Commission Disposes 36,474 Appeals in One Year

The Commission resolved thousands of pending RTI appeals from February 2025 to January 2026

BENGALURU

The Karnataka Information Commission has disposed of 36,474 appeals between February 2025 and January 2026, marking a significant improvement in addressing Right to Information (RTI) applications. During the same period, it imposed fines totaling Rs 45.29 lakh on 241 Public Information Officers (PIOs) for failing to provide information on time or for not appearing before the Commission.

As of February 2025, 69,471 applications were pending. Following this year's disposals, 32,997 second appeal applications remain pending, said Chief Information Commissioner K. Raman. The improved clearance rate has been attributed to a training workshop on the RTI Act conducted for district-level PIOs and First Appellate Authorities across 23 districts. The training enhanced compliance, with 85–

90 percent of officers now providing information and attending hearings.

The Karnataka Milk Federation and Electronic City Industrial Township Authority have been formally declared public authorities, ensuring they respond to RTI requests.

The Commission has also recommended that RTI-related topics be included in government recruitments, promotion exams, and educational curricula. Additionally, it has suggested discussing RTI application disposal during district and taluk-level KDP meetings.

Departments with the highest pending second appeals include Rural Development (11,195), Water Resources (10,473), Revenue (5,384), and Urban Development (4,336). District-wise, Bengaluru City leads with 6,361 pending appeals, followed by Belgaum (3,388), Raichur (2,123), Bagalkot (1,999), and Vijayapura (1,951). Other districts include Kolar (1,605), Dharwad (1,483), Kalaburagi (1,337), Haveri (1,033), and Tumakuru (991).

The Commission's actions aim to strengthen transparency, ensure timely information delivery, and encourage accountability among public authorities across Karnataka.

Lack of Kannada Cultural Roots Hurting Cinema Attendance: KV Prabhakar

Social media and online streaming have reduced cinema hall footfall, affecting revenue

BENGALURU

Kannada cinema has increasingly drifted from its literary and cultural roots, leading to a decline in audience attendance, said KV Prabhakar, Media Advisor to the Chief Minister. Speaking at the session Golden Jubilee: 50 Years of the Kannada Cinema Journey during the 17th Bengaluru International Film Festival, Prabhakar noted that earlier films resonated with everyday life, naturally drawing viewers to theatres without actors having to solicit attention. "One who does not understand the past cannot step into the future," he remarked.

Celebrating 50 years of Kannada cinema, the festival honoured stalwarts who shaped the industry: Parvathamma Rajkumar, S Ramachandra, Girish Kasaravalli, SV Rajendra Singh Babu, and Dr Jayamala. Prabhakar highlighted Kasaravalli's four National Golden Lotus Awards and international acclaim, S Ramachandra's pivotal role in parallel cinema, Parvathamma Rajkumar's 80 socially relevant films under Poornima Enterprises, Dr Jayamala's achievements as actor, producer, and academic, and SV Rajendra Singh Babu's successful multilingual contributions. Prabhakar expressed hope that their legacy would guide Kannada cinema into the next century and assured that film subsidies would continue as long as Siddaramaiah remains Chief Minister.

He also warned that the current trend of lead actors immediately declaring themselves stars upon a film's release reflects cinema's disconnect from its literary and cultural foundations, contributing to declining theatre audiences.

CM Clarifies State Not Responsible for Namma Metro Fare Hike

BENGALURU

Chief Minister Siddaramaiah on Friday clarified that the Karnataka government has no role in the recent increase in Namma Metro fares and said a formal request will be made to the Union Government to review the hike.

Speaking to the media, he emphasized that Namma Metro is a lifeline for millions of commuters, including working professionals, students, and families. "I understand the concerns and pain expressed by the public regarding the fare revision. Your voice matters, and a responsible government listens," he said.

He explained that the Metro fares are determined by the independent Fare Fixing Committee (FFC), constituted under the Metro Rail (Operation and Maintenance) Act, 2002. Sections 36 and 37 of the Act mandate that the Metro administration must implement the committee's recommendations. "It is factually incorrect and misleading to suggest that the Karnataka government is responsible for the fare hike," he added.

CM Siddaramaiah reiterated that the state will appeal to the Centre to reconsider the fares, seeking mechanisms to rationalize costs for daily commuters, students, and low-income groups.

He also warned against politicizing the issue, stating that opposition parties should not mislead the public. "The central government's decision is straining public transport and increasing the cost of daily life. Karnataka comes first, then party," he said, assuring that the state government will always stand with its citizens.

This clarification comes amid widespread commuter concerns over the rising metro fares and calls for the state to intervene. The CM's statement seeks to place responsibility correctly with the central authorities while pledging support for affordable public transport.

Women urged to show courage at workplaces

Dr. Choudhary said many women stay silent about harassment due to fear or concern for honour, but silence only worsens pain and perpetuates violence

KOPPAL

Chairperson of the Karnataka State Women's Commission, Dr Nagalakshmi Choudhary, said women should be more courageous than simply being nice and must raise their voice against injustice.

She was speaking while inaugurating a training and awareness programme on the Prevention of Sexual Harassment of Women at Workplace Act 2013 at the District Administration Building auditorium on Friday. The programme was organised for chairpersons and members of local and internal grievance redressal committees.

Dr Choudhary said many women believe remaining silent about physical or sexual harassment will solve the problem. Some fear society's reaction, while others stay quiet due to concern for their honour and safety. She said silence only increases pain and violence instead of ending it. She explained that women are often emotional, and some people misuse this to commit violence. In such situations, women must set aside fear and hesitation and speak out boldly. She said kindness should never become weakness.

Dr Choudhary stressed that every organisation has a duty to provide a safe and fearless work environment for women. Strict implementation of the POSH Act is essential to address workplace harassment. She said cases of sexual harassment must be taken seriously, and grievance committees play a key role in delivering justice.

She added that committee members must clearly understand the law, investigation process, and their responsibilities. Women should feel confident to file complaints, and committees must act effectively.

She also said a peaceful and secure workplace helps women perform better and deliver quality work. Existing laws provide remedies for domestic, sexual, mental, and emotional violence, and victims can seek legal action.

Zilla Panchayat Chief Executive Officer Varnit Negi, DFO Nirmala, Additional Deputy Commissioner Sidrameshwar, Deputy Director P Y Shetteppanavara, Commission Member Secretary Roopa, resource person Chandrika T S, and officials from various departments attended the programme.

Farmer leaders demanded year-round MSP-based procurement centers for all major crops to prevent exploitation by private traders

Yadgir farmers block road demanding fair prices

YADGIR

Farmers in Yadgir staged a protest by blocking the road near the Agricultural Produce Market (APMC) Ganj, demanding fair prices for their crops. The protest was organized by the Karnataka State Farmers' Association and Raitha Sene.

Farmer leaders called for year-round procurement centers for all major crops, including cotton, togari, uddu, neem, paddy, peanut, sajje, and jowar, at the minimum support price (MSP) fixed by the central government. They argued that continuous procurement would help farmers avoid exploitation by private traders.

This year, heavy rains led to a poor peanut crop yield, and falling market prices have added to farmers' hardships. Protesters demanded that the peanut price be fixed at a minimum of Rs 12,000 per quintal to protect their livelihoods.

Farmers emphasized that fair pricing for all crops is only possible if procurement centers operate throughout the year according to MSP rates.

Several prominent farmers joined the demonstration, including State Vice President Laxmikant A. Patil Maddaraki, District President Mahaveer Lingeri, Tayappa Naglapura, Srikanth Kumbara, and Mallikarjuna Honagera.

The protest caused temporary disruption of traffic near the market but highlighted the growing concern among local farmers over unstable crop prices and the need for government intervention to safeguard their earnings. Authorities monitored the situation, urging calm while listening to farmers' demands.

Speaking at a press conference at the District Collector's Office here on Friday, he said farmers will soon be able to get certified copies of old revenue records online. This will reduce unnecessary visits to taluk offices and help eliminate middlemen.

The minister said the government aims to bring administration to people's doorsteps. The government has set a target to distribute title deeds to 2.20 lakh families within two and a half years.

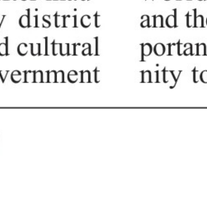
Urgent Call to End Violence against Women

CHIKKABALLAPURA

February six is observed as the International Day of Zero Tolerance for Female Genital Mutilation with this year's strong slogan, "Enough is enough." The day aims to raise global awareness about a harmful and violent practice that continues to affect millions of girls and women.



Female Genital Mutilation, commonly known as FGM, involves cutting or removing parts of the external genitalia of girls. According to the World Health Organization, this practice is based on superstition and has no medical benefit. It is usually carried out on girls below the age of fifteen, often without their consent or understanding.

In many cases, young girls are restrained, blindfolded, and forced to undergo the painful act. No medical procedures or hygiene standards are followed, and victims are treated in an inhuman manner. After the act, girls are often sent home without proper medical care, sometimes given only traditional remedies, leading to lifelong health problems.

FGM is still practiced in parts of Africa, Asia, and other regions, despite being illegal in many countries. The practice is often justified as a way to control women's sexuality and prepare them for marriage. However, it causes severe physical pain, repeated infections, complications during menstruation, childbirth, and emotional trauma.

Even in the twenty first century, women continue to fight against such cruel traditions. Dr Mahesh Kumar, District Health and Family Welfare Officer, said superstitions must end and women's rights must be protected. He urged people to seek correct information from government hospitals or call the free health helpline 104 for guidance and support.

Nishikant Dubey vows to set up library of published

NEW DELHI

Amid the controversy that arose after the Leader of Opposition in the Lok Sabha, Rahul Gandhi, challenged the Central government over its objection to quoting excerpts from an unpublished memoir of former Army Chief General M.M. Naravane, BJP MP Nishikant Dubey on Friday said he will set up a library accessible to everyone to provide information on the contribution of the Nehru-Gandhi family, including published and banned books. Dubey, who has often targeted the Congress party and the Gandhi family, on Thursday intensified his attack by releasing a list of 40 books that he claimed expose the 'real history' of India and alleged controversies linked to Congress' past governance.

Vaishnaw Addresses Metro Plans for Jammu, Kerala Rail Projects

Railway Minister Ashwini Vaishnaw addressed Metro plans, stalled rail projects, and environmental challenges during a lively Rajya Sabha session

NEW DELHI

A lively Question Hour and Zero Hour session in the Rajya Sabha on Friday saw Railway Minister Ashwini Vaishnaw respond to a wide range of concerns related to infrastructure development, including the possibility of Metro services in Jammu, stalled railway projects due to land and environmental issues, demands for premium train connectivity, and ongoing initiatives in Kerala.

During Question Hour, BJP-nominated MP Gulam Ali sought clarity on plans to introduce a Metro system in Jammu. In response, Vaishnaw said he would pass the query to Manohar Lal Khattar, who oversees Metro-related matters. However, he also highlighted the technical complexities of operating rail systems in high-altitude regions such as Jammu and Kashmir.

The operation of rail in high altitude areas is complicated; we should have a special design for the trains in Jammu and Kashmir, Vaishnaw said. He added that a suitable train design has already been prepared and that decisions are expected soon, signaling progress toward customized solutions that could support improved urban mobility, potentially including Metro-like services in the region.

The minister also addressed concerns raised by farmers, stating that the Railways would not lay spurs off main railway lines where such construction could damage apple orchards. He acknowledged that agricultural impact remains a sensitive issue and assured members that farmers' objections are being taken into account during project planning.

During Zero Hour, Vaishnaw turned his attention to broader challenges slowing railway expansion across the country. He pointed specifically to the semi-high-speed Silver Line rail project in Kerala, noting that the project faces serious environmental concerns.

The Silver Line project has a huge environmental impact, he told the House, underscoring why progress has been difficult.

He further stressed that land acquisition remains one of the biggest bottlenecks for railway development nationwide. The state government should help the Central government, as land acquisition is really hard, and so many railway projects are pending because of this, Vaishnaw said, appealing for stronger cooperation from state authorities.

Thiruvananthapuram Emerges as BJP's Strongest Bastion in Kerala

THIRUVANANTHAPURAM

The state capital district has emerged as the strongest political base of the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) in Kerala, a shift underlined by the party's historic takeover of the Thiruvananthapuram Corporation. The victory marks the first time in over four decades that the civic body has slipped out of the control of the CPI(M)-led Left, signaling a major realignment in the state's political landscape.

The BJP wrested control from the Communist Party of India (Marxist)-led Left Democratic Front, which had maintained an uninterrupted grip on the corporation for more than 40 years. Party strategists now view the district as central to their roadmap for the upcoming state Assembly elections, seeing the result as proof that sustained organisational efforts can yield breakthroughs even in traditionally difficult terrain.

In the 101-member Thiruvananthapuram Corporation, the BJP won 50 seats, emerging as the single largest party. The Left secured 29 seats, while the United Democratic Front (UDF), led by the Indian National Congress, managed 20. Two Independents were also elected, one of whom later extended support to the BJP, enabling it to cross the 51-seat majority mark and formally form the council.

For the BJP, the result represents far more than a municipal success. Party leaders say it validates years of grassroots mobilisation, cadre-building, and targeted outreach in an area long dominated by the Left and Congress. The win has bolstered confidence that Kerala's political terrain, often considered resistant to the BJP, can be contested and gradually reshaped.

BJP Leaders Laud Modi's 'Pariksha Pe Charcha' as Inspiring Lesson Beyond Exams

NEW DELHI

BJP leaders praised Prime Minister Narendra Modi's student interaction, calling 'Pariksha Pe Charcha' inspiring, historic, and deeply impactful.

Several BJP leaders and Union Ministers on Friday lauded Prime Minister Narendra Modi for his interaction with students during the ninth edition of Pariksha Pe Charcha, describing it as an inspiring initiative that offered life lessons extending far beyond examinations.

BJP MP Hema Malini said the programme stood out for the way the Prime Minister connected with children like a teacher, motivating them while simplifying complex issues. It was the first time we witnessed such a programme. He explained everything so easily that even we learnt a lot from it, she said, highlighting Modi's ability to communicate with clarity and warmth.

Echoing similar views, BJP MP Arun Govil described Pariksha Pe Charcha as a beautiful initiative that directly addressed students' stress and anxieties. He noted that the Prime Minister responded to students' questions with sensitivity and empathy. Some students recited such beautiful poems. Overall, it was a very encouraging and meaningful programme, Govil said. Union Minister of State Jayant Chaudhary pointed to Modi's unique style of communication, saying the programme reflected the aspirations of the nation through its children. Just look at their talent, curiosity and eagerness to learn. For them, it is such a special moment to interact directly with the Prime Minister at his residence and ask questions openly, he remarked.

Union Education Minister Dharmendra Pradhan said that every point made by the Prime Minister carried a deeper meaning. He noted that Modi used simple examples to convey powerful ideas about resilience, focus, and personal growth. Through small examples, he conveyed very powerful ideas, Pradhan said. BJP MP Ravi Kishan, who attended the event, termed the interaction historic and praised the Prime Minister's sharpness and awareness even at the age of 75. He is so updated and alert; he is blessed with divine grace. Listening to him every day teaches us something new, he said. Union Minister Ravneet Singh Bittu used the occasion to take a political swipe at Congress leader Rahul Gandhi. He said that while the Prime Minister was teaching children the art of success through Pariksha Pe Charcha, others could also benefit by listening.

SC DA Order to Cost WB Over Rs 10,000 Cr Immediately

KOLKATA

The Supreme Court's verdict directing the West Bengal Government to clear long-pending Dearness Allowance (DA) arrears for state government employees and pensioners is expected to place a significant strain on the state exchequer.

Officials estimate that compliance with the ruling will cost the government a little over Rs 10,000 crore immediately, while the long-term financial impact could rise to nearly Rs 42,000 crore.

According to a senior official from the state Finance Department, these figures are provisional. An exercise has already started to assess the exact expenditure on this count. The final figure will be known only after the process is completed, the official said on Friday.

Shutdown disrupts life in Manipur

IMPHAL

Normal life in Manipur's Churachandpur district was badly affected on Friday as several tribal organisations observed a total shutdown in the Kuki-Zo inhabited hill district to protest the participation and involvement of MLAs from their community in the formation of the state government, officials said. Protest rallies were also organised on Friday on the same issue in Tengnoupal and other mountainous districts of the state. A police official in Imphal said that agitators, holding sticks, stopped vehicles in parts of Churachandpur district headquarters town. Government and private offices, shops, markets, banks and educational institutions remained closed, and vehicles stayed off the roads.

The Kuki Students' Organisation (KSO), Kuki Women Organisation for Human Rights (KWOHR), Joint Forum of Seven (JF7) and a few other Kuki-Zo tribal organisations called the 24-hour total shutdown in Churachandpur district headquarters.

FASTag Annual Pass Crosses 50 Lakh Users

FASTag Annual Pass adoption has surged nationwide, crossing 50 lakh users within six months of its launch

NEW DELHI

The government on Friday said the FASTag Annual Pass has crossed the milestone of 50 lakh users, with more than 26.55 crore toll transactions recorded within just six months of its launch. The data reflects the growing popularity of the scheme among private vehicle owners and its role in streamlining toll payments on India's highway network.

According to the Ministry of Road Transport & Highways, nearly 28 per cent of all car transactions on the National Highway (NH) network are now being carried out through the FASTag Annual Pass.

Officials said this sharp uptake highlights a clear shift toward subscription-based toll payments that reduce the need for frequent recharges and stop-and-go delays at toll plazas.

A region-wise analysis shows that Chandigarh leads the country in Annual Pass usage, accounting for 14 per cent of total transactions under the scheme. It is followed by Tamil Nadu with 12.3 per cent and Delhi at 11.5 per cent, indicating strong adoption in both northern and southern regions.

At the toll-plaza level, Bijwasan Fee Plaza in the Delhi NCR has emerged as the top location for Annual Pass usage, with around 57 per cent of total car crossings there being made using the pass. Mundaka Fee Plaza in Delhi NCR and Jhinjholi Fee Plaza in Sonipat follow closely, each registering about 53 per cent of non-commercial vehicle crossings through the Annual Pass.

The ministry said the FASTag Annual Pass is currently applicable at nearly 1,150 fee plazas across National Highways and National Expressways. It allows users to make unlimited toll payments through a one-time fee of Rs 3,000, valid for either one year or up to 200 toll plaza crossings, whichever is earlier. The facility is available exclusively for non-commercial vehicles equipped with a valid FASTag.

Activation of the Annual Pass is seamless, officials said. Once the one-time payment is made through the Rajmargyatra App or the National Highways Authority of India (NHAI) website, the pass is activated on the existing FASTag linked to the vehicle within two hours.

Polish Foreign Affairs Secretary Praises Modi as Phenomenal Leader

NEW DELHI

Visiting Polish Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs Wladyslaw Bartoszewski has hailed Prime Minister Narendra Modi as a very charismatic and phenomenal leader, saying India is fortunate to have him at the helm during a period of rapid transformation.

In an exclusive interview with IANS during his visit to New Delhi, Bartoszewski said Prime Minister Modi's ambitious vision has dramatically reshaped India and placed the country firmly on a path of sustained growth. I think the Prime Minister is a phenomenal leader. He is very charismatic, as proven by being elected and re-elected several times. He has changed India dramatically and has a very ambitious vision for the country, he said.

Praising India's economic progress, Bartoszewski noted that the country's rise to become the world's fourth-largest economy reflects the impact of strong and consistent leadership. Today, India is the fourth-largest economy and is moving very fast in the right direction under the leadership of Prime Minister Narendra Modi. I think you are lucky to have such a Prime Minister, he remarked.

Sharing a more personal assessment, the Polish leader said that beyond public perception, Prime Minister Modi leaves a strong impression in private interactions as well. Privately, I can say that he is an absolutely charming, charismatic, and pleasant person. I believe many Indians feel the same way, because they follow his guidance and directions, Bartoszewski said, adding that India's progress has been striking compared to earlier decades. Bartoszewski also highlighted the deepening strategic relationship between India and Poland. Referring to the strategic partnership agreement signed during Prime Minister Modi's visit to Warsaw in 2024, he said bilateral ties continue on an upward trajectory, marked by growing cooperation in political, economic, and strategic domains.

He underlined that Poland views India as a key partner in Asia and sees significant scope for expanding collaboration in trade, technology, defence, and people-to-people exchanges. The strong rapport between the two governments, he said, is reinforced by mutual respect and shared democratic values.

Spa employee sexually assaulted for refusing to pay extortion, three held

THIRUVALLA

A spa employee was allegedly sexually assaulted for refusing to pay money demanded by a gang in Thiruvalla town of Kerala's Pathanamthitta district. The incident occurred at a spa in the Manjadi area on February 1.

According to the complaint, KAAPA Act accused Subin Alexander, popularly known as 'Marana Subin', along with five associates, entered the spa around 3.30 p.m. and asked for extortion money.

When the woman running the establishment refused to comply, the gang allegedly assaulted her and the staff.

A female employee was dragged into an adjacent room, threatened with a knife held to her neck, and subjected to sexual assault, the complaint said.

The accused allegedly forced another customer present at the spa into the room, made him and the establishment owner lie on a bed, and photographed and video-recorded the incident using mobile phones. The visuals were allegedly shot as an act of intimidation.

Madhya Pradesh Considers Incentives for Pulses

BHOPAL

Madhya Pradesh plans incentives for pulse production as the government pushes farmer income growth and agri-industry expansion. Madhya Pradesh Chief Minister Mohan Yadav on Friday said the state government is considering incentives for the production of urad (black gram) and masoor (lentil) pulses to encourage farmers and boost agricultural output. The announcement was made while he was addressing a three-day national and international exhibition of advanced machinery related to pulses, grains, and food processing industries in Indore.

Madhya Pradesh plans incentives for pulse production as the government pushes farmer income growth and agri-industry expansion.

The Chief Minister said the government has already prepared a detailed plan and that a formal announcement would be made during an upcoming farmers' conference. Our government is going to announce incentives on moong and urad crops during a Kisan Sammelan soon, Yadav said. He also revealed ambitious plans to raise milk production in the state from the current 9 per cent to 20 per cent over the next five years, underlining a broader push toward strengthening allied agricultural sectors.

Addressing representatives from national and international food processing companies, Yadav said the state is also planning to establish air cargo facilities in the future to support faster and more efficient movement of agricultural and processed food products. Highlighting the state's strategic location, he said Madhya Pradesh lies at the centre of the country and already benefits from strong road and railway connectivity. The government is committed to increasing the income of farmers, but at the same time, we are also ready for full cooperation with industrialists, he said.

The Chief Minister reiterated the state government's focus on farmer welfare, noting that Madhya Pradesh has declared 2026 as the 'Year of Agriculture'. The move signals a strategic policy shift aimed at strengthening farming, dairy, and rural livelihoods, while also promoting value addition through food processing.

Before making the announcements, Yadav inaugurated the exhibition, which showcased state-of-the-art machinery and turnkey plants used in processing pulses, rice, flour, spices, gram flour, wheat, flattened rice (poha), maize, soy, pasta, peanuts, chickpeas, millets, seeds, and other agricultural products. The displays highlighted technological solutions designed to improve efficiency, quality, and profitability across the agri-processing value chain.

Kavitha to launch new political party in 3 months

HYDERABAD

Telangana Jagruthi President K. Kavitha on Friday announced that she will announce a new political party within three months. She told media persons here that she is waiting for a good 'mahuratam' (auspicious time) to launch the political party.

Kavitha, daughter of Bharat Rashtra Samithi (BRS) President and former Chief Minister K. Chandrasekhar Rao (KCR), quit the BRS last year after she was suspended from it for anti-party activities.

The former MP announced that Telangana Jagruti will organise a meeting in Hyderabad on February 12 to pay tributes to those who laid down their lives for Telangana.

Return to ballot papers reflects anti-technology approach of K'taka govt: Pralhad Joshi

NEW DELHI

Union Minister for Food, Public Distribution and Consumer Affairs Pralhad Joshi on Friday criticised the Congress-led Karnataka government for opting for ballot papers instead of Electronic Voting Machines (EVMs) in elections, terming the move as an approach that goes against modernity and technology. Speaking to reporters in Delhi, Joshi said the decision of the Congress-led state government to use ballot papers even in local body and gram panchayat elections reflects an attitude opposed to progress. He condemned the move, stating that while the entire country is moving towards modern technology and development, it is unfortunate that the state government is choosing to act against modern practices by reverting to ballot paper-based elections.He pointed out that the introduction of EVMs across the country has helped put a check on electoral malpractices. Despite this, the Congress-led state government is taking such regressive steps merely to please its party high command, he alleged.

It may be noted that the Karnataka government has decided to bring amendments to use ballot papers instead of EVMs in the upcoming local body polls in the state.Minister for Law H.K. Patil had stated, The government has resolved to recommend necessary legal amendments and framing of rules to facilitate the conduct of all upcoming local body elections through ballot papers instead of the EVM system. Earlier, the data from Assembly elections was being used. Now, a decision has been taken to recommend revision, correction, and reconstitution of the voters' list, so that the State Election Commission can prepare a high-quality electoral roll.

MEGHALAYA MULTILEVEL PARKING

Meghalaya Unveils Multi-Pronged Decongestion Plan

SHILLONG

Meghalaya Chief Minister Conrad K. Sangma on Friday acknowledged that traffic congestion remains one of the most serious challenges facing Shillong, and said the state government has adopted a long-term, multi-pronged strategy to decongest the city. The approach, he said, begins with the creation of organised and modern parking infrastructure.

Inaugurating Meghalaya's first Automated Multilevel Car Park at Vivekananda Road near the Additional Secretariat, Sangma said unplanned parking and the shortage of designated parking spaces have been major contributors to traffic snarls in the state capital. Among the many challenges Shillong faces, traffic congestion is one of the most pressing. A multi-pronged strategy was therefore developed to slowly and steadily decongest the city, and the multilevel car park we are inaugurating today is just one part of the solution, he said.

The Chief Minister informed that the government has already identified nine additional locations across the city for similar multilevel parking facilities. Once developed, these sites are expected to create parking capacity for around 1,300 vehicles, significantly easing roadside congestion in busy commercial and administrative areas.

Emphasising the importance of organised parking, Sangma said indiscriminate roadside parking severely disrupts traffic flow and causes inconvenience to commuters. To address this, he highlighted the state's new parking policy, which allows private landowners to partner with the government to develop parking facilities.

Under this model, landowners are permitted to collect revenue from the parking spaces, making it a mutually beneficial arrangement.

Abandoned Scam Compound in Cambodia

Combodia

Inside a deserted compound in Cambodia, investigators uncovered stark evidence of an industrial-scale fraud operation that appeared to have been abandoned in extreme haste. Papers lay scattered across desks and floors, computers were left behind, and entire rooms had been meticulously designed to resemble police offices from Singapore and Australia, suggesting a sophisticated effort to deceive victims across continents. Among the documents found were detailed personal profiles of individuals from around the world.

Grieving Parents Seek Answers After Teen Dies Bar

Pully

As the parents of 17-year-old Trystan Pidoux prepared to lay their son to rest, they were still searching for answers about how he died in a bar fire at a popular Swiss ski resort. The teenager was among those who lost their lives after a blaze broke out during New Year's Eve celebrations at Le Constellation Bar in Crans-Montana, a luxury destination in the Swiss Alps. In the days following the tragedy, Trystan's parents, Vinciane Stucky and Christian Pidoux, formally requested that prosecutors order an autopsy to determine the precise cause of their son's death. They hoped the procedure would clarify whether he died from smoke inhalation, burns, or other factors linked to the fire, and whether safety failures contributed to the tragedy.

Trump Backs Japan's Prime Minister Sanae Takaichi

Washington

U.S. President Donald Trump on Friday gave his "total endorsement" to Japanese Prime Minister Sanae Takaichi ahead of Japan's national election scheduled for Sunday, injecting international attention into a closely watched political contest. Trump also said he was looking forward to hosting Takaichi at the White House next month, underscoring what both sides describe as a strong and strategic bilateral relationship. Takaichi, Japan's first female prime minister, is widely expected to secure a solid victory for her ruling coalition, according to recent opinion polls.

High-Stakes Iran–U.S. Nuclear Talks Begin Under Omani Mediation

Iran and the United States cautiously reopen indirect nuclear negotiations in Oman, as disputes over scope threaten fragile diplomacy

TEHRAN

Iran and the United States have taken a tentative step toward renewed diplomacy, initiating high-stakes negotiations through Omani mediation aimed at resolving long-standing disagreements over Tehran's nuclear programme. The talks, which began on Friday in the Omani capital Muscat, come at a time of heightened regional instability and carry significant implications for Middle East security.

According to an Iranian official quoted by Reuters, the negotiations had not formally commenced, though Iran's core demands were already conveyed to Washington through Oman. The official indicated that indirect talks could begin after a meeting between the chief U.S. negotiator and Oman's foreign minister, reflecting a familiar "shuttle diplomacy" model used in previous Iran–U.S. engagements. This indirect format underscores the deep mistrust that continues to define relations between Tehran and Washington.

While both sides have publicly signaled a willingness to revive diplomacy over Iran's nuclear activities, sharp differences remain over the scope of the talks. Washington has expressed interest in broadening the agenda beyond the nuclear file to include Iran's ballistic missile programme, its support for armed groups across the region, and domestic human rights concerns. U.S. Secretary of State Marco Rubio recently reiterated that any sustainable agreement must address these wider issues.

Iran, however, has pushed back strongly against such an expansion. An Iranian diplomatic source warned that any involvement of the U.S. military, particularly CENTCOM or regional military officials, could jeopardize the fragile process. Tehran has insisted that the discussions remain strictly focused on nuclear matters, arguing that introducing security and political issues would derail progress.

Iran has proposed that its Foreign Minister, Abbas Araqchi, engage solely on the nuclear dossier with U.S. Middle East envoy Steve Witkoff. The talks are being closely watched internationally, given the risk that failure could escalate tensions and potentially ignite another conflict in the Middle East. Adding another layer of complexity, Jared Kushner, the son-in-law of former U.S. President Donald Trump and a key figure in past Middle East mediation efforts, is also expected to participate in the discussions.

Fighting Intensifies in Eastern Congo, Peace Threatened

Renewed clashes in eastern Congo's highlands are escalating quietly, complicating peace efforts and widening an already volatile conflict.

CONGO

At the general hospital in Fizi, a remote town surrounded by steep highlands in eastern Congo's South Kivu province, nurses rushed to save a wounded soldier's life after he was delivered to the emergency ward on the back of a motorbike. Slumped and bleeding, the soldier had been shot in both legs while fighting on the mountainous front lines north of the town, where violence has surged sharply in recent weeks.

The fighting pits Congo's national army against multiple rebel factions operating in the rugged terrain of eastern Democratic Republic of Congo. These clashes, occurring far from major cities and largely outside the spotlight of international diplomacy, are steadily intensifying. According to local and security sources, more fighters and equipment are being deployed by all sides, raising fears that the conflict could spread further across the region.

The violence is unfolding in South Kivu, a region that has long been a flashpoint in Congo's decades-old conflict. However, recent escalations carry broader geopolitical implications. Analysts warn that the renewed fighting risks undermining efforts by the Trump administration to stabilize eastern Congo as part of a strategy aimed at encouraging Western investment in the region's vast mineral resources, including cobalt and lithium.

Earlier this week, the AFC/M23 rebel group cited the clashes in South Kivu as justification for a drone attack on Kisangani airport, located hundreds of kilometres from the active front lines. The group described the strike as retaliation for alleged government aerial bombardments of villages in South Kivu, accusing the army of targeting civilian areas during operations against rebels.

Congo's military has so far not commented publicly on the drone strike or on the rebels' claims that government forces carried out air attacks on villages. The lack of official response has fueled uncertainty and concern among humanitarian groups, who warn that civilians in isolated mountain communities are increasingly vulnerable as fighting intensifies beyond the reach of aid agencies.

Pressure Mounts on Jack Lang Over Epstein Links

PARIS

Political pressure increased on Friday on former French culture minister Jack Lang to step down as president of the Arab World Institute, following revelations about his past association with the late convicted sex offender Jeffrey Epstein. The controversy deepened after France's foreign ministry summoned Lang to discuss the matter, signaling growing concern at the highest levels of government.

Lang, a prominent figure in French cultural and political life, acknowledged earlier this week that he had met Epstein around 2012. However, he insisted he was unaware at the time of Epstein's 2008 conviction for sex offences involving a minor in the United States. Lang described Epstein as little more than an acquaintance, portraying him as a wealthy financier with an interest in art and cinema rather than as someone known for criminal behavior.

According to Lang, the introduction was made by U.S. filmmaker Woody Allen, who presented Epstein as a patron of the arts. Lang said their interactions were limited and professional, centered on cultural topics, and denied any close personal relationship. "I had no reason at the time to suspect the criminal background that later became widely known," Lang said in earlier remarks.

The United States urged negotiations on a new nuclear arms treaty after the expiry of limits on U.S.-Russian arsenals

U.S. Calls for New Nuclear Arms Control Treaty After Expiry of New START Pact

WASHINGTON

The United States on Friday called for the negotiation of a new nuclear arms control agreement following the expiration of the landmark New START treaty, which had capped strategic nuclear weapons deployments by Washington and Moscow. The treaty formally expired, ending the last remaining bilateral framework governing the world's two largest nuclear arsenals.

Russia had earlier proposed that both sides voluntarily extend the terms of the agreement for another year to allow time for discussions on a successor treaty. However, U.S. President Donald Trump rejected that approach, saying in a social media post that a completely new agreement was needed rather than a temporary extension of what Washington views as an outdated framework.

Speaking at a Disarmament Conference in Geneva, U.S. Under Secretary of State for Arms Control and International Security Thomas DiNanno said that extending New START would not serve the interests of the United States or global security. He argued that the treaty was flawed and failed to reflect the current strategic environment, particularly because it excluded China, whose nuclear capabilities are expanding.

"Today, the United States faces threats from multiple nuclear powers," DiNanno told delegates. "In short, a bilateral treaty with only one nuclear power is simply inappropriate in 2026 and going forward." His remarks underscored Washington's position that future arms control efforts must be broader in scope and address the realities of a multipolar nuclear world.

New START, which entered into force in 2011, placed limits on deployed strategic nuclear warheads and delivery systems held by the United States and Russia. Its expiration marks a significant moment in global arms control, raising concerns among analysts about the potential for an unconstrained nuclear arms race if no successor agreement is reached.

Earlier, DiNanno told reporters that Trump had been unequivocal in his desire for a new nuclear arms treaty, one that would go beyond the bilateral U.S.-Russia framework. Trump has repeatedly argued that China should be included in any future deal, reflecting Washington's growing concern over Beijing's military modernization.

Storm Leonardo Triggers Evacuations in Southern Spain as Flood and Landslide Risks Grow

GRAZALEMA

Authorities in southern Spain evacuated residential areas on Friday amid fears that a major river could overflow following days of relentless rain brought by Storm Leonardo. Emergency officials also warned of landslides caused by bursting underground aquifers, as saturated ground struggled to absorb further rainfall. More than 7,000 people have been forced to leave their homes in the Andalusia region so far, according to regional authorities. The evacuations come as part of a broader emergency response to what meteorologists have described as a "storm train," a sequence of consecutive weather systems that have battered the Iberian Peninsula with torrential rain, strong winds, and widespread disruption over the past several weeks.

Local officials said rivers across southern Spain were approaching critical levels, raising fears of sudden flooding in low-lying towns and rural communities. Civil protection teams moved residents from vulnerable neighborhoods as a precaution, while emergency services monitored dams, reservoirs, and riverbanks around the clock. In some areas, roads were cut off by floodwaters and mudslides, complicating rescue and evacuation efforts.

The prolonged rainfall has also increased the risk of landslides, particularly in hilly and mountainous zones. Authorities warned that underground aquifers, swollen beyond capacity, could suddenly burst to the surface, destabilizing soil and triggering collapses.

'Leave Iran now': US issues warning ahead of nuclear talks in Oman

WASHINGTON

Amid rising tension between Washington and Tehran, the United States has warned its citizens in Iran to "immediately" leave the West Asian country. The advisory, issued by the Virtual US Embassy in Iran, told American nationals to prepare a departure plan that does not rely on US government help, as unrest and travel disruptions persist across the nation. The United States and its archrival Iran have been at daggers drawn since the 1979 Islamic Revolution and embassy hostage crisis in Tehran. However, tensions have escalated since US President Donald Trump threatened to strike Iran in response to its bloody crackdown on the massive protest movement, which began in late December 2025. Trump has sent what he describes as an "armada" to the Gulf, which includes the aircraft carrier USS Abraham Lincoln and its escort. The so-called armada has been stationed in the region since late January.

RUSSIAN GENERAL SHOT

Senior Russian Military Intelligence Officer Shot

MOSCOW

A top Russian military intelligence official was shot inside his Moscow apartment building on Friday and rushed to hospital, investigators said, marking the latest in a string of apparent assassination attempts linked to Russia's war in Ukraine. The victim, Lieutenant General Vladimir Alexeyev, serves as deputy head of the GRU, Russia's powerful military intelligence agency.

According to Russian investigators, an unidentified gunman fired several shots at Alexeyev before fleeing the scene. The shooting occurred as Alexeyev was leaving his apartment building to head to work, suggesting the attacker may have been waiting for him. The general, 64, was transported to hospital in serious condition, with early reports indicating multiple gunshot wounds.

Alexeyev's senior role within the GRU means he would have been closely involved in planning and overseeing aspects of Russia's military campaign in Ukraine. Since the full-scale invasion began in 2022, Moscow has faced a series of targeted attacks on military figures, intelligence officers, and pro-war figures, particularly in Russian cities far from the battlefield.

The Russian newspaper Kommersant, citing law enforcement sources, reported that Alexeyev sustained gunshot wounds to his arm, leg, and chest during what appeared to be a struggle with the assailant. Investigators have not released details on the suspect's identity or possible motives, and security services have launched a manhunt.

Alexeyev's work has previously been recognised at the highest level. He was awarded the title of Hero of Russia by President Vladimir Putin, an honour reflecting his prominence within the country's military and intelligence establishment. The attack on such a high-ranking figure is likely to heighten concerns within Russia's security services about vulnerabilities even in heavily guarded urban areas.

There was no immediate comment from Ukrainian officials. However, since the start of the war, Ukrainian military intelligence has openly claimed responsibility for the killing of several senior Russian officers. Some of those targeted had appeared on publicly circulated lists of individuals described by Kyiv as enemies of Ukraine.

Friday's shooting underscores the shadow war running parallel to the conflict in Ukraine, in which intelligence services, covert operations, and targeted killings play an increasingly visible role.

Centre's Borrowing Manageable: RBI Governor

RBI Governor Sanjay Malhotra says lower govt borrowing will efficiently support economic stability

MUMBAI

Reserve Bank of India Governor Sanjay Malhotra said on Friday that the central government's borrowing programme for the coming financial year is on the lower side, which should allow it to mobilise resources at reasonable prices without putting undue pressure on financial markets. His remarks came during the post-monetary policy press conference, where he sought to reassure investors about debt sustainability and liquidity conditions.

29th Meeting of the Financial Stability and Development Council (FSDC)
Chaired by
Hon'ble Union Finance Minister
Smt. Nirmala Sitharaman

Malhotra stressed that market participants should focus more on the government's net borrowing requirement rather than headline gross borrowing figures. It may not be right to look at the gross borrowing number alone, he said, explaining that higher redemptions expected in FY27 would naturally push up gross borrowing. Net borrowings, however, are only at Rs 11.73 lakh crore, which is about Rs 20,000 crore more than last year. Given the size of the Budget, one would have expected a much bigger increase, he observed.

According to the governor, the relatively modest rise in net borrowings reflects fiscal discipline and should help keep bond yields in check. He added that the government plans to supplement its borrowing programme through the issuance of Treasury Bills, which would provide authorities with greater flexibility in managing cash flows and smoothing the yield curve.

The issuance of Treasury Bills in the next financial year will help further manage the yield curve better, Malhotra said. He also noted that the budgeted numbers for small savings schemes appear conservative, reinforcing the view that the Centre's overall borrowing burden remains manageable. The Centre's borrowing programme is on the lower side and can raise funds at reasonable prices, he added.

RBI Proposes Allowing Bank Lending to REITs

MUMBAI

RBI Governor Sanjay Malhotra announced reforms to boost credit flow to REITs and ease expansion norms for NBFCs.

Reserve Bank Governor Sanjay Malhotra on Friday said the central bank proposes to allow commercial banks to extend finance to Real Estate Investment Trusts (REITs), marking a significant shift in India's financial and real estate funding landscape. The move, he said, will be subject to appropriate prudential safeguards and reflects the growing maturity of the regulatory framework governing listed REITs.

Malhotra explained that REITs and Infrastructure Investment Trusts (InvITs) were originally conceptualised in India to help free up banks' capital locked in completed and operational real estate and infrastructure projects. These trusts were designed to refinance such assets using pooled funds from institutional and retail investors, reducing direct exposure of banks. In line with that objective, commercial banks were initially barred from lending to both REITs and InvITs.

While bank lending to InvITs was permitted at a later stage, lending to REITs remained prohibited until now. Upon review, and considering the presence of a strong regulatory and governance framework for listed REITs, it is proposed to permit commercial banks to extend finance to REITs, subject to appropriate prudential safeguards, Malhotra said.

He added that existing guidelines for lending to InvITs will also be harmonised to ensure parity with the prudential safeguards proposed for REITs. Draft directions outlining the revised framework will be issued shortly for public consultation, allowing stakeholders to provide feedback before the rules are finalised. Market participants expect the move to broaden funding options for REITs and deepen India's listed real estate market.

In a separate announcement, Malhotra said the Reserve Bank of India also proposes to dispense with the requirement of prior approval for opening branches in the case of NBFCs-Investment and Credit Companies (ICCs) engaged in lending against gold collateral. Currently, such NBFCs with more than 1,000 branches are required to seek RBI approval before opening new outlets.

In view of the comprehensive prudential and governance framework applicable to NBFC-ICCs, it is proposed to dispense with the requirement of prior approval for opening branches by such NBFCs, the governor said.

According to him, such measures will strengthen India's economic foundations and reinforce confidence in the country's industrial and developmental trajectory.

India's proposed Bharat Container Shipping Line seeks to reduce foreign reliance, strengthen logistics, and generate jobs, a report said

Bharat Container Shipping Line Targets Foreign Dependence, Jobs, Trade

MUMBAI

The government's push to establish a new domestic container shipping line, Bharat Container Shipping Line (BCSL), is aimed at reducing India's dependence on foreign carriers while stimulating job creation and economic growth, according to a new report. The initiative is expected to form a central pillar of India's long-term import and export logistics strategy.

According to a report published by The Maritime Executive, the government earlier this week oversaw the formal signing of agreements outlining the roadmap for BCSL. As part of the initial rollout, the government plans to order 15 domestically built container ships during FY 2026–27, marking a significant boost for India's shipbuilding sector.

The report said Phase 1 of the project envisions the deployment of 51 vessels over the next five years. In its initial stage, BCSL services are expected to focus on Asia,

West Asia, and the Red Sea region, before expanding operations to Europe, Africa, and the Americas. This phased expansion is designed to gradually position India as a stronger player in global container shipping.

Officials cited in the report said the government is prepared to invest nearly $6.5 billion in launching the shipping line. It will become the backbone of India's import and export logistics strategy, the report quoted officials as saying, underlining the scale and strategic importance of the project.

The memorandum of understanding for BCSL was signed by several key state-run and port entities, including Shipping Corporation of India, Container Corporation of India, Jawaharlal Nehru Port Authority, VO Chidambaranar Port Authority, Chennai Port Authority, and Sagarmala Finance Corporation Limited.

The report also noted that recent changes to cabotage rules have already encouraged global shipping majors such as CMA CGM, Maersk, and MSC Mediterranean Shipping to reflag vessels in India, reflecting growing confidence in the country's maritime policy framework.

Beyond shipping, the government plans to develop a domestic container manufacturing ecosystem capable of producing one million TEUs annually. A $1 billion container manufacturing assistance scheme has been outlined for the next five years. Additionally, $1.6 billion has been allocated for port capacity expansion projects, including a major outer harbour development by the VO Chidambaranar Port Authority.

RBI's rate decision reflects favourable assessment of India's growth: Economists

MUMBAI

The Reserve Bank of India's (RBI) decision to keep the policy rate unchanged reflected a favourable assessment of growth and inflation dynamics, economists said on Friday. The RBI MPC, in its first monetary policy review of 2026, kept the repo rate unchanged at 5.25 per cent.

Analysts welcomed the pause on rate hikes and said they expect the RBI to maintain an extended pause, due to positive cyclical upswing and confidence from successful conclusion of multiple trade deals.

Radhika Rao, Executive Director and Senior Economist at DBS Bank, said the decision was anchored in a favourable macroeconomic outlook, and planned revision to the CPI and GDP series later this month.

Rao noted the governor's cues about factors behind the recent uptick in bond yields, adding that the central appeared ready to act pre emptively if needed. Looking beyond February, we expect the RBI to maintain an extended pause, supported by a positive cyclical upswing and confidence effects stemming from the successful conclusion of US trade negotiations, she said.

Madan Sabnavis, Chief Economist, Bank of Baroda said that despite the RBI's assurance on liquidity, no specific measures were announced indicating need-based interventions.

Sabnavis highlighted the central bank's recent move to raise the collateral free loan limit to Rs 20 lakh as a follow up to Budget measures for MSMEs.

We expect that the rate cycle has ended and 5.25 per cent repo rate will be maintained for some time, and the next move is more likely in upward direction if inflation turns out to be higher in future, Sabnavis said.

The RBI's rate pause gave much-needed stability to the real estate sector at a time when growth expectations have strengthened following the Union Budget's thrust on higher government spending, added Prashant Sharma, President, NAREDCO Maharashtra.

Rajani Sinha, Chief Economist, CareEdge Ratings, estimated that the recently proposed tariff reductions from the India-US trade deal could add roughly 20 basis points to GDP growth. The ratings agency raised its FY27 growth projection to about 7.2 per cent, with CPI inflation estimates averaging close to 4 per cent.

Adani Powers Vidarbha's Energy, Industrial Growth

NAGPUR

Jeet Adani, Director of Adani Defence and Aerospace, said Vidarbha is central to India's energy story, with the Adani Group's presence being generational. At 'Advantage Vidarbha 2026', he highlighted Maharashtra's 3,300 MW Tiroda power plant, the revived 600 MW Butibori plant, and a 25-year 6,600 MW electricity supply deal. A Rs 70,000 crore coal gasification complex at Linga will create 30,000 jobs and boost chemical manufacturing. Adani is also strengthening logistics with a 75-acre ICD at Borkhedi and 24 border check posts, enhancing exports, competitiveness, and Vidarbha's industrial role.

Railway Tunnel to Boost Northeast Connectivity: Assam CM

GUWAHATI

Assam Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma on Friday welcomed the proposed underground railway tunnel through the Siliguri Corridor, describing it as a game-changing initiative that would further strengthen connectivity between the Northeast and the rest of the country while ensuring uninterrupted movement of passengers and goods.

In a post on the social media platform X, CM Sarma said the ambitious project would cement India's strategic and economic links with the Northeast, a region long dependent on the narrow Siliguri Corridor, often referred to as the Chicken's Neck, for surface connectivity. Expressing gratitude to Prime Minister Narendra Modi, the Chief Minister said the visionary proposal reflected the Centre's long-term commitment to national integration and balanced regional development.

The proposed underground railway tunnel through the Siliguri corridor will further cement connectivity to the North East region and provide an uninterrupted link for the movement of passengers and goods. Gratitude to Adarniya @narendramodi ji for envisaging this game-changing idea, CM Sarma posted.

The Chief Minister has on several occasions highlighted the strategic vulnerability of the Siliguri Corridor, a narrow stretch of land connecting the Northeast with mainland India.

He has described it as not only a logistical lifeline but also a sensitive national security zone, stressing the need for multiple, resilient connectivity options to safeguard economic activity and mobility in the region.

He has earlier pointed out that dependence on a single surface corridor poses risks during natural disasters, accidents or other disruptions, which can effectively cut off the Northeast.

He has advocated for alternative routes and advanced infrastructure solutions, including tunnels and enhanced rail and road networks, to ensure seamless access at all times.

Officials said the proposed underground railway tunnel would significantly reduce such vulnerabilities by providing a protected, all-weather route through the Siliguri Corridor.

Pakistan's aim to reach $100 bn exports by 2030

NEW DELHI

A recent report highlights that the gap between Pakistan's official governance and actual living conditions is undermining productivity, deepening inequality, and weakening growth. Ambitious goals, such as achieving $100 billion in exports by 2030, are closer to wishful thinking than credible strategy. While the government's latest incentive package may offer temporary relief, it cannot significantly alter the export trajectory without deep structural reforms.

Projections place Pakistan's total exports at roughly $40–41 billion in FY2025–26, with merchandise exports around $32 billion and services $8–9 billion. Performance so far is weak: merchandise exports from July 2025 to January 2026 fell 7% year-on-year to $18.2 billion, widening the trade deficit by 28.2%.

Structural transformation in productivity, urban infrastructure, industrial clustering, and competitiveness is essential. Only 38–39% of the population is officially urban, though many densely populated areas function as cities, absorbing migrants and shaping labor markets. Without reform, Pakistan's export ambitions remain more a sandcastle than a strategy.

India-EU FTA Enhances Indian Auto Component Access

MUMBAI

The India-EU Free Trade Agreement (FTA) is expected to significantly enhance access and price competitiveness for Indian auto components in European markets. By reducing tariffs and streamlining trade regulations, the agreement aims to make Indian products more attractive to European buyers, supporting export growth and strengthening India's position in the global automotive supply chain.

For Indian manufacturers, this creates opportunities to scale production, diversify markets, and improve cost efficiency, particularly in segments where European demand is growing. Simultaneously, Indian companies may face higher quality and compliance standards, pushing them to adopt advanced manufacturing practices.

Overall, the FTA is a strategic move to boost India's automotive exports, enhance competitiveness, and foster deeper economic engagement with the European Union, benefiting both industry stakeholders and the broader economy.

INDIA AUSTRALIA TRADE

India-Australia Case Studies Highlight Trade Pact Impact

NEW DELHI

The India–Australia business case studies demonstrate how the bilateral trade agreement has translated into tangible opportunities for companies, Commerce Secretary Rajesh Agrawal said on Friday. He described the initiative as evidence-based and reflective of how businesses are actively using the agreement to expand operations and accelerate growth across both markets.

The India–Australia Business Case Studies Compendium, jointly developed by the Indian Institute of Foreign Trade (IIFT) and Newland Global Group, is titled Pitch Perfect Australia-India: Perfect Conditions for a $100

Billion Partnership. According to the Commerce Ministry, the publication documents real-world business journeys of 30 organisations operating across India and Australia, highlighting market-entry experiences, growth strategies, and practical lessons learned.

Agrawal praised IIFT for anchoring the initiative and underlined its relevance for policymakers, industry leaders, and academic stakeholders. He said the compendium would play an important role in strengthening and enhancing the gains of the India–Australia Economic Cooperation and Trade Agreement (ECTA), which came into force to deepen economic integration between the two countries.

Australian High Commissioner to India Philip Green also welcomed the initiative, noting that platforms bringing together academia, government, and industry are essential for sustaining the strong strategic relationship between India and Australia. He acknowledged IIFT's role in fostering informed dialogue on bilateral trade and investment.

Joint Secretary Petal Dhillon highlighted the growing momentum in India–Australia economic relations, stating that IIFT has played a crucial role in generating research-driven insights and facilitating dialogue that supports better utilisation of ECTA.

Professor Rakesh Mohan Joshi, Vice Chancellor of IIFT, emphasised the importance of documenting real business journeys and transforming them into learning resources for both industry and academia. He said collaborations such as this reflect IIFT's commitment to bridging research and practice and supporting India's expanding footprint in global trade.

THE MARVEL OF STEEL AND AMBITION: INDIA'S AMAZING RAILWAY INFRASTRUCTURE

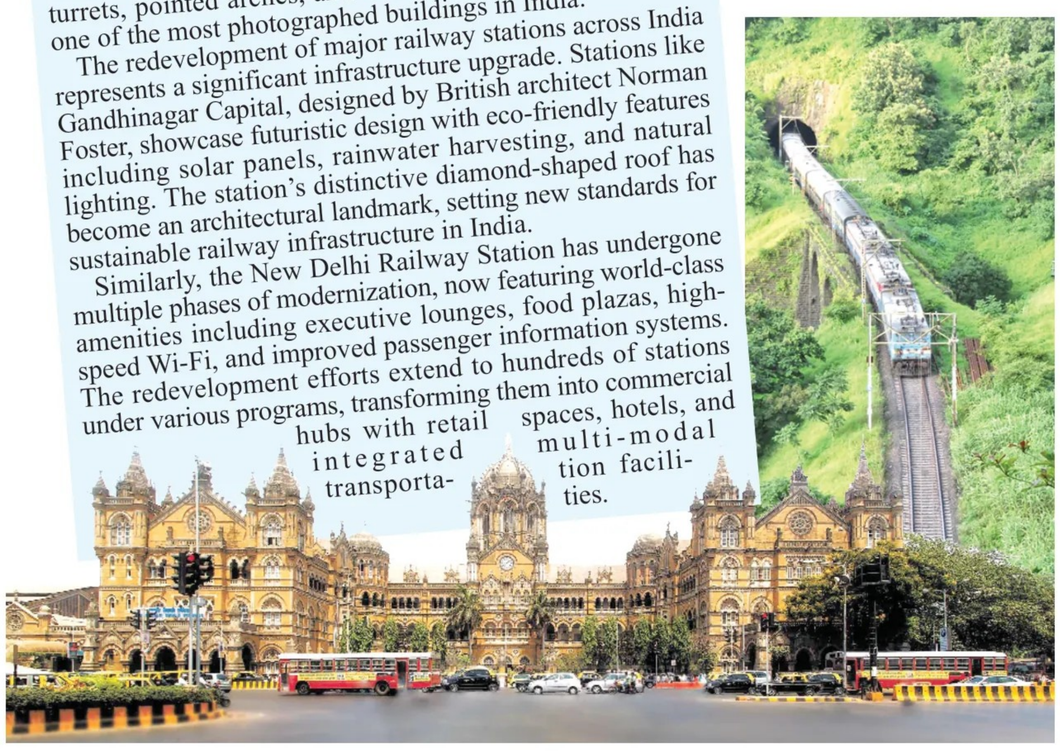
When the first train chugged out of Mumbai's Bori Bunder station on April 16, 1853, covering the 34-kilometer stretch to Thane, few could have imagined that this modest beginning would evolve into one of the world's largest and most complex railway networks. Today, the Indian Railways stands as a testament to engineering excellence, administrative prowess, and the indomitable spirit of a nation that moves on rails. Spanning over 68,000 route kilometers and employing more than 1.2 million people, Indian Railways is not just a transportation system—it's the circulatory system of the world's most populous democracy. Every day, approximately 13,000 passenger trains transport nearly 23 million passengers across the country, while 9,000 freight trains carry the lifeblood of India's economy. This vast network connects the snow-capped peaks of the Himalayas to the sun-kissed beaches of Kerala, the deserts of Rajasthan to the tea gardens of Assam, making it an engineering marvel that deserves deep appreciation.

Station Architecture: Where Heritage Meets Modernity

Indian railway stations range from modest village stops to grand architectural statements that rival international airports in their facilities and aesthetics. The Chhatrapati Shivaji Maharaj Terminus in Mumbai, formerly known as Victoria Terminus, is a UNESCO World Heritage Site and represents the finest example of Victorian Gothic Revival architecture blended with traditional Indian elements. Its stone domes, turrets, pointed arches, and eccentric ground plan make it one of the most photographed buildings in India.

The redevelopment of major railway stations across India represents a significant infrastructure upgrade. Stations like Gandhinagar Capital, designed by British architect Norman Foster, showcase futuristic design with eco-friendly features including solar panels, rainwater harvesting, and natural lighting. The station's distinctive diamond-shaped roof has become an architectural landmark, setting new standards for sustainable railway infrastructure in India.

Similarly, the New Delhi Railway Station has undergone multiple phases of modernization, now featuring world-class amenities including executive lounges, food plazas, high-speed Wi-Fi, and improved passenger information systems. The redevelopment efforts extend to hundreds of stations under various programs, transforming them into commercial hubs with retail spaces, hotels, and integrated multi-modal transportation facilities.



Architectural Masterpieces on Rails

The infrastructure of Indian Railways encompasses some of the most breathtaking and technically challenging railway constructions in the world. The Chenab Bridge in Jammu and Kashmir, when completed, will stand as the world's highest railway bridge at 359 meters above the riverbed—taller than the Eiffel Tower. This architectural wonder, part of the Udhampur-Srinagar-Baramulla Rail Link project, represents the pinnacle of Indian engineering capability. Designed to withstand high wind speeds, extreme temperatures, and seismic activity in one of the most geologically sensitive zones on Earth, the bridge required innovations in construction technology and materials science.

The Pamban Bridge connecting Rameswaram to mainland India is another engineering gem. Built in 1914, this cantilever bridge features a double-leaf bascule section that can be raised to allow ships to pass through. Standing amid the harsh saline environment of the Bay of Bengal, this bridge has withstood countless cyclones and continues to serve as a vital link, though a new parallel bridge is now under construction to complement it.

Mountain railways hold a special place in India's railway heritage. The Darjeeling Himalayan Railway, the Nilgiri Mountain Railway, and the Kalka-Shimla Railway are UNESCO World Heritage Sites, recognized for their outstanding universal value. These narrow-gauge railways, built during the British colonial era, demonstrate remarkable engineering solutions to overcome steep gradients and challenging terrain. The Nilgiri Mountain Railway, for instance, uses a unique rack and pinion system to climb gradients as steep as 1 in 12.5, offering passengers spectacular views of lush valleys and mist-covered mountains.

Sustainability Initiatives: Greening the Rails

Indian Railways has emerged as a global leader in sustainable transportation infrastructure. The ambitious goal to become a net-zero carbon emitter by 2030 has driven numerous green initiatives across the network. Massive solar power installations on station rooftops, along railway tracks, and on unused railway land contribute significantly to the energy requirements of the network.

Bio-toilets in trains have replaced conventional discharge systems, preventing human waste from being discharged onto tracks. Over 2.8 lakh bio-toilets have been installed across the fleet, making Indian Railways one of the largest implementers of this eco-friendly technology. These toilets use anaerobic bacteria to decompose human waste, with the effluent being released onto tracks only after complete sanitization.

Water conservation through rainwater harvesting, sewage treatment plants at major stations, and the use of treated water for horticulture and maintenance activities demonstrate the railways' commitment to environmental stewardship. The extensive tree plantation drives along railway lines create green corridors while preventing soil erosion.

Safety and Signaling: Protecting Lives on the Tracks

Safety remains paramount in operating a network of this magnitude. Indian Railways has invested heavily in modern signaling and telecommunications systems to prevent accidents and ensure smooth operations.

The implementation of the Train Protection and Warning System (TPWS) and the more advanced Train Collision Avoidance System (TCAS), now known as Kavach, represents a major leap in railway safety technology.

Kavach, an indigenous Automatic Train Protection system, uses a combination of GPS, Radio Frequency Identification, and other technologies to automatically apply brakes if trains violate signal warnings or speed limits. This system, being gradually rolled out across the network, can prevent head-on collisions and rear-end collisions, two of the most serious types of railway accidents.

The elimination of unmanned level crossings has been another major safety initiative. Through a combination of constructing road over-bridges, road under-bridges, and subways, along with the provision of manned crossings, Indian Railways has systematically addressed this safety concern across the network.

Challenges and the Road Ahead

Despite its impressive scale and achievements, Indian Railways faces significant challenges. The aging infrastructure in certain sections requires urgent upgrades. The demand for passenger services far exceeds the current capacity during peak seasons, necessitating substantial investment in additional tracks and coaches. The safety record, while improving, still requires sustained focus and investment in modern technologies.

The future of Indian Railways looks toward high-speed rail with the Mumbai-Ahmedabad High-Speed Rail Corridor, being developed with Japanese assistance, marking India's first true bullet train project. This 508-kilometer corridor will operate trains at speeds up to 320 kilometers per hour, reducing travel time between the two cities to about two hours.

The integration of artificial intelligence and machine learning for predictive maintenance, operations optimization, and passenger services promises to make the railways more efficient and customer-friendly. Smart stations equipped with IoT sensors, facial recognition for security, and advanced passenger information systems are being developed as prototypes.

Technological Leaps: From Steam to Semi-High Speed

The technological evolution of Indian Railways reflects the nation's journey toward modernization. The transition from steam locomotives to diesel and electric traction has been nearly complete, with electrification now covering over 85% of the broad-gauge network. This massive electrification drive, one of the largest in the world, reduces dependency on imported diesel, lowers carbon emissions, and improves operational efficiency.

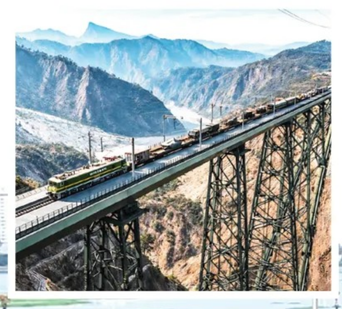
The introduction of Vande Bharat Express trains marks India's entry into the semi-high-speed railway era. These indigenous, train-set-based trainsets manufactured under the Make in India initiative can achieve speeds up to 180 kilometers per hour. With features like automatic doors, GPS-based passenger information systems, onboard Wi-Fi, bio-vacuum toilets, and rotating seats, these trains offer an experience comparable to international standards while being designed specifically for Indian conditions.

The dedicated freight corridors under construction—the Eastern and Western Dedicated Freight Corridors—represent transformative infrastructure projects. These corridors will allow freight trains to run at speeds up to 100 kilometers per hour, carrying double-stacked containers, significantly improving the logistics efficiency of Indian industry. The Western Corridor alone spans 1,504 kilometers from Dadri near Delhi to Jawaharlal Nehru Port in Mumbai, incorporating state-of-the-art technologies including automated train operations and advanced signaling systems.

Economic Engine: Moving the Nation Forward

The railway infrastructure serves as the backbone of India's economy, moving essential commodities including coal, steel, cement, food grains, and petroleum products across vast distances. The freight tariffs of railways remain significantly lower than road transport, making it the preferred mode for bulk cargo movement. The modernization of freight infrastructure, including the construction of multi-modal logistics parks and container terminals, has improved the competitiveness of Indian Railways in the logistics sector.

The railway network also acts as a major employer and creates numerous indirect employment opportunities. From vendors at railway stations to the supply chain for railway equipment and maintenance, the railways support the livelihoods of millions of families across India. The railway workshops in places like Chittaranjan, Varanasi, and Perambur manufacture locomotives, coaches, and wheels, serving as industrial hubs.



Conclusion

The railway infrastructure of India stands as a monument to human ambition, engineering excellence, and the power of connectivity. From bridges that defy gravity to trains that race through the countryside, from heritage stations that tell stories of colonial grandeur to modern terminals that glimpse the future—Indian Railways encapsulates the nation's journey and aspirations.

As India continues to invest in modernizing and expanding this vast network, the railways will remain central to the country's development story. The steel tracks that crisscross the nation are more than mere infrastructure; they are threads that weave together the fabric of Indian society, connecting people, cultures, and dreams. In every whistle of a departing train, in every bridge that spans a challenging gorge, and in every station that bustles with life, the amazing railway infrastructure of India continues to write its remarkable story—a story of progress, resilience, and hope.

FIFA reports record 5,973 international transfers in Jan window

Global men's, women's football sees surge in cross-border moves despite reduced spending

ZURICH

FIFA reported a record 5,973 international transfers during the January trading window for men's football, marking a continued rise in cross-border player movement even as overall spending declined from last year's historic high.

According to the FIFA report, the number of international transfers increased by three percent compared to January 2025. These deals involve clubs from different countries and are processed through FIFA's transfer matching system. While activity reached an all-time high, total spending dropped by around 18 percent to $1.95 billion. Despite the decline, the figure still represents a 20 percent increase over the previous January record set in 2023.

The report highlighted contrasting trends in women's football. Clubs spent more than $10 million on international transfers in the women's game, an 85 percent jump from the previous record a year ago. However, the total number of international transfers in women's football fell by six percent to 420, indicating fewer but significantly higher-value deals.

FIFA clarified that the research covers only international transfers and does not include domestic moves between clubs within the same country.

England once again led global spending in men's football, with clubs shelling out $363 million on transfer fees. Italian clubs ranked second with $283 million, followed by Brazil, Germany and France. Despite heavy spending, English clubs recouped just $150 million from outgoing international transfers.

French clubs emerged as the biggest beneficiaries in terms of sales, earning $218 million, ahead of Italy, Brazil, England and Spain. In the United States, clubs spent $99 million on international signings and earned $48 million from player sales abroad.

English clubs also dominated the women's transfer market, topping both spending and earnings with outlays of over $5 million.

FIFA said the figures reflect the growing globalisation of football, with clubs continuing to prioritise international recruitment even amid financial caution. The trends suggest sustained confidence in the transfer market, particularly in the women's game, where investment continues to rise sharply.

Lookman scores on debut as Atletico cruise into Copa semis

Lookman shines on debut as Atletico thrash Betis to book semifinal spot.

MADRID

Ademola Lookman marked a dream debut for Atletico Madrid by scoring his first goal in a dominant 5-0 win over Real Betis, as Diego Simeone's side marched into the semifinals of the Copa del Rey for the third consecutive season.

The Nigeria international, signed from Atalanta late in the winter transfer window, needed just one start to make an impact, capping a blistering first-half performance by Atletico at the Benito Villamarín. Goals from David Hancko, Giuliano Simeone, Lookman, Antoine Griezmann and Thiago Almada sealed an emphatic victory and underlined Atletico's growing momentum in domestic competitions.

Hancko opened the scoring in the 12th minute with a composed finish, before Giuliano Simeone doubled the lead in the 30th. Lookman then announced himself in style seven minutes later, latching onto a swift counter-attack and calmly finishing to make it 3-0.

"I'm very, very happy and very proud to make my debut tonight," Lookman said after the match. "It was a special performance from the team. Everyone welcomed me warmly, which made it easy to settle in, especially after only a couple of training sessions."

Atletico continued to dominate after the break, with Griezmann netting the fourth goal in the 62nd minute, assisted by Lookman, who capped an impressive all-round display. Almada completed the rout in the 83rd minute.

Coach Diego Simeone praised the new signing's contribution. "He came to help us, and hopefully we can help him improve. He has different qualities from the players we already have, and that will make us stronger," Simeone said. Mexico midfielder Obed Vargas also made his Atletico debut, coming on late alongside another winter signing, Rodri Mendoza.

Atletico will discover their semifinal opponent on Friday, with Barcelona, Athletic Bilbao and Real Sociedad also in the last four. Simeone's side will be aiming to reach their first Copa del Rey final since lifting the trophy in the 2012-13 season. The two teams meet again on Sunday in La Liga, where Atletico sit third, with Betis fifth but trailing by 10 points.

Four-star Kerala demolishes Punjab, sets up summit clash with Services

SILAPATHAR

Seven-time champion Kerala produced a commanding all-round performance to thrash a 10-man Punjab 4-0 in the semifinals of the 79th Santosh Trophy National Football Championship at the Rajiv Gandhi Stadium, booking a title clash with Services.

Kerala, dominant from the outset, seized control early and never allowed Punjab a foothold in the contest. Muhammed Ajsal opened the scoring in the 16th minute, rising at the far post to head in M.M. Arjun's well-flighted corner-kick. The early breakthrough set the tone for Kerala's aggressive approach, built around swift movement and effective use of set-pieces.

P.T. Muhammed Riyas doubled the advantage in the 34th minute, again capitalising on a corner. After Arjun played a short delivery, Bibin Ajayan slipped the ball into the box for an unmarked Riyas, who made no mistake from close range. Kerala continued to press, and their dominance was rewarded just before the interval when M. Viknesh pounced on a defensive lapse to slot home the third goal at the stroke of half-time.Punjab's troubles deepened in the 72nd minute when Harjit was shown a red card for a second bookable offence, effectively ending any hopes of a comeback. With the numerical advantage, Kerala controlled possession and tempo, and Riyas completed his brace in the 83rd minute, finishing clinically off Ajsal's assist to seal an emphatic victory. In the earlier semifinal, Services advanced to their 13th Santosh Trophy final after defeating Railways 2-0 at the same venue. Abhishek Pawar starred for Services, scoring once in each half. He opened the scoring with a fine volley in the 32nd minute and later converted a penalty in the 73rd after Zaheer Khan was fouled inside the box.

Bundesliga title race flickers as Dortmund close in on Bayern

BERLIN

In the space of just two match days, Borussia Dortmund have breathed fresh life into a Bundesliga title race that once appeared all but settled. Bayern Munich's commanding lead at the top has been cut by five points, leaving Dortmund six adrift and sensing an unlikely opening after months of Bavarian dominance.

Bayern's shock 2-1 home defeat to Augsburg — their first league loss in 10 months — followed by a hard-earned draw away to Hamburg, has stalled a campaign that began at a historic pace. After producing the best opening half-season in Bundesliga history, Bayern had seemed destined for another routine crown. Instead, Niko Kovac's Dortmund have edged closer, quietly applying pressure.

Dortmund travel to a struggling Wolfsburg, a day before Bayern host in-form Hoffenheim.

A Dortmund win would temporarily reduce the gap to just three points, cranking up the tension ahead of a pivotal period in the season. Dortmund's tally of 45 points from 20 games is their best at this stage since the 2018-19 campaign.

The stakes will rise further when Dortmund host Bayern in late February, a fixture now carrying genuine title implications. Kovac, however, remains cautious. "We can determine our own fate by ensuring the others don't catch us. We can't determine the fate of others," he said. "We're six points behind and we play Bayern Munich only once."

Dortmund's only league defeat came at Bayern earlier this season, a narrow 2-1 loss in which they created enough chances to claim a result. Yet game management has hurt them. They have dropped 10 points from winning positions in the final 20 minutes, including recent scares against Heidenheim and St Pauli.

Meanwhile, Bayern face a stern test from third-placed Hoffenheim, last season's relegation candidates who have won 11 of their past 14 league games. Midfielder Grischa Prömel has been central to their rise, contributing six goals and two assists in an ever-present campaign.

With momentum subtly shifting, the Bundesliga's long-dormant title intrigue may finally be stirring.

PSG brace for tough run as 'strange' Marseille come to town

PARIS

Paris Saint-Germain coach Luis Enrique has warned that his side faces a demanding finish to the Ligue 1 season, beginning with Sunday's high-voltage clash against unpredictable arch-rivals Marseille at the Parc des Princes.

European champions PSG arrive on the back of six straight league wins but are far from comfortable leaders. A resurgent Lens sit just two points behind, having also reached the French Cup quarterfinals, keeping the title race alive far longer than expected. "It's a very hard league," Luis Enrique said after last week's dramatic 2-1 win at Strasbourg, where PSG struck late despite being reduced to 10 men following Achraf Hakimi's red card.

"Lens deserve to be up there with us. Marseille and Lyon are improving as well. It's going to be a tough end to the season," the Spaniard added.

PSG have enjoyed a rare free midweek following their surprise domestic cup exit, but a gruelling schedule looms. Later this month, they face a two-legged Champions League playoff against Monaco with a place in the round of 16 at stake.

Marseille arrive in Paris amid turbulence. Roberto De Zerbi's side were knocked out of Europe in chaotic fashion and faced fierce supporter backlash, despite responding with a convincing 3-0 French Cup win over Rennes. Banners unfurled by fans reflected lingering anger over recent failures, prompting talks between club officials, players and supporter groups.

"It's a strange team, hard to figure out," De Zerbi admitted. "We're looking for continuity and consistency." Marseille beat PSG 1-0 in September and pushed them to penalties in the Champions Trophy last month after a stoppage-time equaliser forced a 2-2 draw.

PSG will miss the suspended Hakimi, while winger Khvicha Kvaratskhelia remains an injury doubt. Even so, De Zerbi knows the challenge ahead. "PSG are the strongest team in Europe," he said. "I really believe it."

With form, rivalry and pressure colliding, Sunday's Klassiker promises another tense chapter in French football's fiercest feud.

Hockey India Names 24-Member Squad for Pro League

NEW DELHI

Hockey India announced a 24-member Indian men's squad for the upcoming home leg of the FIH Pro League, marking the team's first major international assignment of the season and offering opportunities to several promising youngsters.

The Rourkela leg of the Pro League will be held from February 10 to 15, with Argentina and Belgium set to tour India for the fixtures. The selection reflects a blend of experience and youth as the team management looks to build depth ahead of a demanding international calendar.

Goalkeeper Pawan Malik has been handed an opportunity alongside Suraj Karkera, underlining the selectors' intent to widen options between the posts. One of the standout inclusions is defender and drag-flick specialist Amandeep Lakra, who earned a call-up after a stellar performance in the recently concluded Hockey India League. Lakra was adjudged Player of the Tournament, impressing with his composure in defence and consistency on penalty corners.

The squad also features two members from India's bronze medal-winning junior team at the recent Junior World Cup. Twenty-one-year-old Rosan Kujur has received his maiden senior national call-up, while Manmeet Singh has also been rewarded for his performances at the junior level.

Experienced names such as captain Harmanpreet Singh, Amit Rohidas, Hardik Singh, and Mandeep Singh provide stability and leadership, while the forward line sees a mix of proven performers and emerging attackers as India looks to maintain its attacking intent against strong opposition.

Badminton Asia Team Ch'ship: India women's title defence ends in quarterfinals

QINGDAO

India's women's team saw its title defence at the Badminton Asia Team Championships come to an abrupt end after suffering a 0-3 defeat against a second-string China in the quarterfinals here on Friday.

The Indian side, which had created history by winning its maiden gold medal in the previous edition in 2024, struggled to match China's consistency and depth, with the absence of ace shuttler P.V. Sindhu proving a significant setback. Sindhu was ruled out due to a niggle, leaving a relatively inexperienced squad to shoulder the responsibility in a high-pressure knockout tie.

India's hopes of a positive start were dashed in the opening singles as World No. 42 Tanvi Sharma went down tamely to World No. 10 Gao Fang Jie. Tanvi, who had impressed earlier in the tournament with two wins, was unable to find her rhythm and lost 9-21, 9-21 in a one-sided contest that handed China an early lead.

The women's doubles pair of Gayatri Gopichand and Treesa Jolly fought valiantly in the second match but fell short against the formidable world No. 4 Chinese combination of Jia Yi Fan and Zhang Shu Xian.

The Indian duo showed resilience, clawing back from a 10-16 deficit in the opening game to draw level, only to lose it 22-24. In the second game, Gayatri and Treesa briefly took control at 13-10 before a flurry of points swung the momentum back in China's favour, resulting in an 18-21 loss.

With the tie hanging by a thread, Rakshitha Ramraj put up a spirited display against Xu Wen Jing in the second singles. Rakshitha pushed her opponent hard in a gruelling 69-minute battle but eventually lost 14-21, 21-15, 17-21, sealing India's exit.

Earlier, India had opened its campaign with a dominant 5-0 win over Myanmar before narrowly losing 2-3 to Thailand in its final group-stage match, a result that set up the quarterfinal clash with China.

Three titles in three years is amazing: SMRITI MANDHANA

RCB skipper hails franchise's golden run after WPL triumph over Delhi Capitals

VADODARA

Royal Challengers Bengaluru captain Smriti Mandhana described the franchise's run of success as "amazing" after RCB clinched their second Women's Premier League title, completing a rare hat-trick of trophies across competitions in three years. Mandhana's comments came after RCB defeated Delhi Capitals by six wickets in the WPL 2026 final at the Baroda Cricket Association Stadium here on Thursday. Chasing a daunting target of 204, RCB produced a composed batting effort to seal the title, extending Delhi Capitals' heartbreak to a fourth final defeat in as many appearances. "Very pleased. RCB fans are the best in the world. We get support wherever we play. Three titles in three years for the franchise — it is amazing," Mandhana said, reflecting on the women's team's breakthrough WPL triumph in 2024, the men's IPL victory last year, and now another WPL crown. Mandhana felt the pitch was conducive to batting but credited the bowling unit for setting up the win. "We did think it was a good surface to bat on. 203 is a good score in a final. It was a match-winning spell from Lauren Bell — she bowled four overs for just 20 in a match where 400 runs were scored," she said. The skipper also lauded the backroom staff for creating clarity within the squad. "One thing that stood out this season was the support staff. Roles were very clear, which makes our job easier on the field. The girls are working extremely hard, especially in the gym, and that gives you confidence to chase any score," Mandhana added, singling out Georgia Wareham's contribution with the bat as "special". Despite another final loss, Delhi Capitals captain Jemimah Rodrigues said she was proud of her team's resilience. "Could not be more proud of this group. It wasn't easy, but the character the girls showed was outstanding. Putting up 204 in a final is always a great effort. Everyone fought hard and gave their best," Rodrigues said.

'You guys deserve this undoubtedly': Virat Kohli lauds RCB's second title

BENGALURU

Former India captain Virat Kohli heaped praise on Royal Challengers Bengaluru's women's team after they clinched their second Women's Premier League (WPL) title, calling the achievement fully deserved and a moment of pride for the entire franchise. Kohli, the long-standing face of the Bengaluru-based franchise, took to Instagram to congratulate the side led by Smriti Mandhana, shortly after RCB defeated Delhi Capitals by six wickets in the WPL 2026 final. The victory marked RCB women's second championship, following their maiden title win in 2024, and further underlined the franchise's recent golden run. "Champions again. Keeping the RCB flag flying high and something that each one of you can be proud of," Kohli wrote. "To Smriti and the whole squad and the management team, a big congratulations for this tremendous victory. You guys deserve this undoubtedly. Enjoy the moment and embrace the love of our amazing fans."

Kohli's message resonated strongly with RCB supporters, many of whom have endured years of near-misses before the franchise's fortunes turned around in recent seasons. The women's team broke the club's title drought in 2024, before the men's side finally lifted the IPL trophy in 2025. The latest WPL triumph has further cemented RCB's status as one of the most successful franchises across formats. In the final played at the Baroda Cricket Association Stadium in Vadodara, RCB produced a commanding all-round performance. Chasing a stiff target of 204, Mandhana anchored the innings with a composed and authoritative knock, ensuring RCB crossed the line with six wickets in hand.

For Delhi Capitals, the loss was another bitter blow, as they suffered their fourth defeat in a WPL final. Despite the disappointment, the 2026 season was once again marked by competitive cricket and growing fan engagement.

Kohli's public appreciation of the women's team highlighted the increasing prominence of the WPL and the strong sense of unity within the RCB franchise, a bond that now has multiple titles to celebrate.

RCB'S RISE ACROSS FORMATS CONTINUES WITH WPL TRIUMPH

Kohli's words struck a chord with RCB fans who had lived through years of heartbreak before the franchise's revival in recent seasons. The women's team ended the long wait for silverware with their breakthrough title in 2024, followed by the men finally winning the IPL in 2025. Sunday's WPL success has further reinforced RCB's rise as a powerhouse across formats. In the Vadodara final, RCB delivered a dominant all-round show, with Smriti Mandhana calmly steering the chase of 204 to seal a six-wicket win. Delhi Capitals, meanwhile, endured their fourth WPL final defeat, even as the league continued to grow in quality and popularity.

Mandhana hid major illness before WPL final: RCB coach

BENGALURU

Royal Challengers Bengaluru captain Smriti Mandhana battled a "massive flu" ahead of the Women's Premier League (WPL) 2026 final but chose to hide her condition from teammates, head coach Mololan Rangarajan revealed after RCB's title-winning victory over Delhi Capitals.

According to Rangarajan, Mandhana was seriously unwell with a high fever in the lead-up to the summit clash but never let it affect her preparation or demeanour. "Massive, massive flu. She was seriously unwell, but she didn't show it for even a second. Nobody in the team knew," Rangarajan said. "When I spoke to her, she just said, 'Nahi, Malo, koi problem nahi. I'll be there.' That's Smriti and her work ethic." Mandhana went on to produce one of the finest innings in WPL history, scoring a scintillating 87 off just 41 balls, laced with 12 fours and three sixes. Her knock powered RCB to a successful chase of 204 — the highest run chase ever achieved in a WPL final — as the Bengaluru side sealed their second league title and denied Delhi Capitals yet again.

Rangarajan struggled to find words to describe the innings. "She saved one of her best knocks for the final. The way she batted was almost inhuman — so classy, so elegant. She looked completely in control, picking exactly where she wanted to attack," he said. The coach also highlighted Mandhana's preparation, noting that she had trained just two days before the final. "Her last training session was among the best she's ever had. We had many chats about her batting, how she was feeling, and she looked extremely comfortable," he added.

Mandhana finished the tournament as the highest run-scorer, capping off a remarkable phase in her career that also includes topping India's batting charts and playing a key role in the country's 2025 Women's World Cup triumph.

Describing her approach, Rangarajan called Mandhana a "nerd" when it comes to batting. "She's always looking to improve, always trying something new. That hunger to get better is why she's achieved what she has," he said.

Faster courts favour Dhakshineswar as India brace for Netherlands in Davis Cup Qualifier

BENGALURU

The faster playing conditions in Bengaluru are expected to play into the strengths of Dhakshineswar Suresh as India prepare to face the Netherlands in the Davis Cup Qualifier first-round tie, beginning on Saturday. With India's top singles player Sumit Nagal returning from a minor hip injury, the hosts are likely to lean heavily on Dhakshineswar's ability to exploit the quick surface, particularly in the opening singles rubbers. The conditions reward first-strike tennis and aggressive shot-making, an area where Dhakshineswar has consistently shown his ability to thrive under pressure.While Nagal has been recovering well and has looked increasingly comfortable during practice sessions, there remain questions over how his body will respond once the tie moves into high-intensity match play. The physical demands of singles, combined with the speed of the court, could test Nagal's movement and endurance if encounters stretch into long rallies, even though he is familiar with local conditions after competing in the Bengaluru Open and the World Tennis League. Dhakshineswar's role could therefore be pivotal once again, much like in Switzerland last year when he rose to the occasion to win crucial singles matches in India's historic away victory. His opening-rubber win there allowed Nagal the breathing space to settle into the tie and later sweep his singles. The Netherlands, too, are expected to enjoy the faster surface but arrive weakened by the absence of their top two singles players — Tallon Griekspoor and Botic van de Zandschulp. That has evened out the contest and given India confidence of pulling off a second successive Davis Cup upset.

The Dutch challenge will be led by world No. 88 Jesper de Jong, who has recorded notable wins over several top-30 players and looms as the biggest singles threat. India will look to capitalise against Guy den Ouden, ranked 162, who is set to make his Davis Cup debut.

India's doubles prospects have been strengthened by the return of Yuki Bhambri, now ranked 20, who will partner N. Sriram Balaji against Sandre Arends and David Pel.
